More Fireworks And Some Idle Men Real Life Is No Gamble Roses for Diamond Joe

MORE fireworks in Wall Street. General Motors climbed to 199.

Nothing gayer than fireworks. But be sure the rocket stick doesn't hit you on the way down.

A Stock Exchange seat sold for $375,000—$25,000 more than Saturday's price. Exchange seats will go to half a million, and then the 1100 seats on the Stock Exchange will be worth $550,000,000. When Russell Sage and Jay Gould were active you could have bought them all for $35,000. Everything goes up.

That's one side of the picture. The other side is supplied by Mr. Davis, Secretary of Labor, who tells the Senate that "unemployment is serious."

Stocks increasing in value more than a thousand millions in a day, and 1,847,050 men out of work does not make a pretty combination.

When Burke wept over "Poor Marie Antoinette," Fox told him he saw the fine feathers, but forgot the dying bird. He could see the fancifully dressed royal Austrian woman, not the French peasants starving to death.

Chicago's chief of police, smashing gambling house doors, says: "There will always be gambling. Everything in life is a gamble." That is inaccurate. Building public schools, radio sets, automobiles or telephones, is not a gamble. Real work and honesty are not gambling. Gambling is a vicious substitute for such things.

They buried "Diamond Joe" Esposito, his own followers having shot 58 slugs into his back. Two airplanes flying low dropped 10,000 roses along the funeral road from the Holy Family Church to Mount Carmel Cemetery.

Very pretty. But if what the Bible says and what Joe Esposito's intimates say is true, Joe, as he looked up at the falling roses must have laughed.

Without lifeboats, emergency rations or radio, three Germans, are to start soon over the Atlantic to America. Stopping in Dublin, for fuel, they expect to get underway at midnight. Everybody's good wishes go with these courageous men, gladly risking their lives in the cause of progress.

The Italian steamship line is first to install and use the "auxiliary air taxi." The Conte Grande, on her way to Europe, will shoot an airplane from her decks at Gibraltar and send you wherever you want to go in Europe.

"Do it now," is Mussolini's motto.

Yale seniors place Lindbergh far above Mussolini, because the young gentlemen understand what Lindbergh has done. Few of them know what Mussolini has done.

You can't compare a magnificent flying eagle with a man fighting the menace of anarchy, which is Mussolini's job, or with such a man as old Baron von Stein refusing to be discouraged or cowed by the power of Napoleon.

The infant death rate is down in Pennsylvania and New York. And that's the most important "crop news" this year.

If only civilization took as much interest in babies as it does in young calves, pigs, boll weevil and corn borer, all would be well.

Consider nature's limitless fecundity.

Mr. Ringling shows you this year a sea-elephant weighing four tons that eats 5 per cent of his weight, or 400 pounds of herrings, at one meal.

Any one of a dozen fishes in one generation would fill all the oceans and seas of the world solid with fish if they and their descendants all survive. The elephant, on the other hand, lives a hundred years and only has two or three children at most. Wise nature.

Motors in Big Drop as Other Stocks Keep Rising

Stocks started strong in Wall Street today, with a tremendous demand for motor shares, but before the end of the first hour numerous leading speculative issues slumped suddenly.

General Motors, which closed yesterday at $198.75, shot downward, while other motor shares were rising. On a "run," General Motors sagged to $180. Before the "run" was ended on the tape the stock was up $7 a share from its low.

Thousands of shares of the big automotive issues changed hands in blocks, sometimes with price changes of $2 to $4 a share between sales.

Willys Overland, Packard and Studebaker swept into new high ground for the year.

GERMAN PLANE TUNED FOR U. S. HOP, AWAITS ONLY GOOD WEATHER

Dublin, March 27 (INS)—The Junkers monoplane Bremen, in which three German airmen will challenge the perils of a westbound transatlantic flight, was overhauled, fueled and provisioned today, and made ready for the hopoff for America.

A strong westerly wind was blowing, making flying conditions unfavorable.

Capt. Herman Koehl, who will pilot the Bremen, planned to hop off at Baldonnel airdrome at 5 o'clock tomorrow (shortly after midnight, Boston time), but it was rumored that the start might be made earlier if weather conditions improved. However, the likelihood of an earlier departure seemed slim this afternoon.

If a stop is not made in Newfoundland, Capt. Koehl expects to reach Michel Field, N. Y., in 30 hours.

Capt. Koehl and his two companions, Baron Von Hunefeldt and Aviator Fritz Loose, went to Baldonnel airdrome, where a special undercarriage, designed by Prof. Junkers of the Junkers Works, was fitted to the plane.

The Bremen had been kept throughout the night under guard in a sealed hangar so no one could tamper with it.

The machine was fueled with a special German petrol, brought from Tempelhofer field by two German engineers.

When fully loaded and ready for flight the plane will weigh five tons. Keen interest has been aroused in the flight, and a number of visitors went to the airdrome during the day to get a glimpse of the plane. Every inch of available space upon the me-

$4 WIDOW ARRIVES AS NEW INQUIRY STARTS

A surprise move by the 84 naval court of inquiry brought members of the court and the widow of the man they held chiefly responsible for the tragedy together today at Boston Navy Yard.

The three members of the court appeared at the yard, much to the surprise of Rear Admiral Andrews, the commandant, and reconvened in official session, inspecting the submarine in drydock and hearing two witnesses.

The admitted purpose was to ascertain if facts recently brought to light should cause a revision of the court's previous report which naval officers thought had ended activities of the court.

When the members appeared, Admiral Andrews was awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Evelyn Jones of Hawthorpe, Md., widow of the 84 commander. She arrived shortly afterward to claim her husband's belongings, recovered from the salvaged submarine.

The other man, held in part responsible for the tragedy, according to the court of inquiry's previous report, was also at the navy yard.

BAYLIS MEETS COUNT.

This was Comdr. Baylis of the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding, who was near the drydock in civilian clothes, gazing at the submarine, when the court members, togged in dungarees, arrived for their inspection. It was the first meeting of Comdr. Baylis and the court since their report.

In that report, made to Secretary

Vet Boston Operator Mourns for First "Wireless" Man

Word from New York that Thomas Tierney, first American to send a radio message—it was "wireless" then—from ship to land, had died suddenly, brought sadness to Charley Mooney, veteran Western Union operator in the Boston Evening American office.

Telegrapher Mooney was the man who sent Tierney's first message over land wires from Scouset, Nantucket, to Boston.

It was 27 years ago that Tierney, then wireless operator on the Nantucket Lightship, "sparked" the first aerial message, telling of the arrival in his territory of a transatlantic liner. The message, in continental code, was received by the operator of the Scouset Wireless station, first such in the East, was sent in Morse code to Mooney at the relay office, and by Mooney was forwarded in Morse to Boston.

LIFE OF MRS. GOODHUE HANGS BY SLIM THREAD

Northampton, March 27—Despite the stimulating presence of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, her daughter, the condition of Mrs. Lemira Goodhue continues grave, according to the first official bulletin issued by Dr. Justin E. Hayes, her physician, today.

Following a conference with Lieut.-Commdr. Joel T. Boone, White House physician, the following bulletin was issued at 11 o'clock, revealing that the patient had been delirious:

"Dr. Hayes states that Mrs. Goodhue's physical condition is about the same today. While clear mentally this morning, most of the time during the past 72 hours she has been delirious, perhaps due to faulty kidney functions. Heart action fair. Is without any physical discomfort.

"In a patient of her advanced years (78) the condition may vary greatly in a few hours."

This bulletin, the first of a series to be issued hereafter twice a day, was given out just before the second visit of the President's wife to her

RICH ROCKPORT WIDOW IS STRANGELY MISSING

Police of Lynn and Swampscott today started a search for Mrs. Nellie Hooper, wealthy widow of 135 Main st., Rockport, who disappeared last Friday with valuables in her possession.

The woman, who is well known along the North Shore, had visited one daughter in Swampscott and was presumably bound for Lynn to spend a day or two with another daughter when she dropped out of sight.

Since that time no word has been received from the missing woman by either her daughters or relatives in Danvers, and John Smith, caretaker of the Hooper home in Rockport, stated he was equally in the dark as to his employer's whereabouts.

Smith expressed the belief that Mrs. Hooper was injured while on her way to Lynn and is now in some hospital, probably unconscious and unidentified.

On Thursday last, Mrs. Hooper who is the widow of a druggest and owns considerable real estate, left her Rockport home and visited a daughter, Mrs. Helen Galzure, 18 Boynton st., Swampscott. She revealed the fact that she was carrying deeds and other papers with her in a handbag.

She left Friday morning, apparently in the best of health and spirits, announcing her intention of vis-

SHOTS HALT 3 SUSPECTS IN EAST BOSTON CHASE

After firing a volley of shots, East Boston police today overtook and captured three men, one of whom broke his leg in a leap down a 20-foot railroad embankment.

Richard Cummings, 31, of Lamson ct., is the injured man, police reported, and the names of others were given as James H. Grant, 23, of Everett street, and Henry Nauman, 25, of London st., all of East Boston.

Grant and Nauman were arraigned in East Boston Court, charged with breaking and entering the A. & P. store at 469 Sumner st., with intent to commit larceny. They waived examination and each was held for the term of the grand jury opening Monday.

The third man, Cummings, was not arraigned because he is at the East Boston Relief Hospital with a broken leg.

The sound of breaking glass in the chain store attracted the attention of Patrolmen Burns and Whelan and they hid in an alley. When they saw the two men enter the store, Whelan went for help while Burns stayed to watch.

The two intruders made a dash for liberty just as Whelan returned with Patrolmen McBrine and Bar-

$3,000,000 LOFT ON OLD FITCHBURG DEPOT SITE

A $3,000,000 combination office, loft and warehouse building, 155 feet high, is to be erected and operated on the site of the old Fitchburg station by the newly incorporated North Station Industrial Building, Inc.

News of the outright sale of the land by the B. & M. and details of the building to be erected, which will give Boston the most up-to-date facilities for storage combined with display space and offices, railroad sidetrack and trade exposition areas ever concentrated in a central location in the United States, was given out today by officials of the new company.

The building will be equipped with a private switch track within the structure with a capacity of 10 cars and adequate shipping platform space.

The first floor will be devoted to high-grade shops and shipping platforms and the upper floors to office display and storage. The top five stories have been leased to the Boston Furniture Mart, Inc., and will be used as a permanent furniture exhibition.

Modern methods of merchandise storage, distribution and display will be conducted under the direction of Col. G. M. McConnel of Chicago, as president, and Col. L. M. Nicolson of Chicago, as vice-president and treasurer.

BORAH WANTS FUGITIVE OIL BARONS INDICTED

Washington, March 27—Senator William E. Borah, one of the outstanding Republican leaders of the Senate, has added his support to the movement started by Hearst newspapers to indict H. M. Blackmer and J. E. O'Neil, the expatriated oil magnates.

"It would be a good thing to indict Blackmer and O'Neil, and I hope it can be done," Borah said. "It is a matter of the highest importance to the Senate that we bring these men back to the United States in order to testify about the Continental Trading Company, a hope that some action can be taken."

Senator Caraway of Arkansas, a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, also expressed himself as favoring the indictment of the two oil men.

The intimation that the indictment will be sought in the state rather than the federal courts was made in the Washington Times last Saturday by Senator George W. Norris, chairman of the Senate Judiciary committee. He is now convinced that this is the correct course to follow.

FLOOD CAUSES NEW MENACE IN VERMONT

Montpelier, Vt., March 27—Sections of northern Vermont, only just beginning to recover from the disastrous flood last November, are menaced with another inundation as the warm weather melts the ice-tied lakes and rivers and the snows on the mountain tops.

Practically all the streams are now some four feet above normal with no prospect of their receding.

The Potash Brook in Barre, that terrific little stream which caused the death of Lieut.-Gov. Hollis Jackson in the November flood, overflowed its banks and flooded the main street of the city, including the business section, the water being about two feet deep at Depot sq., and it continued to rise for some time.

Merchandise in the basements of several of the stores on Main st. was damaged by the water running into the basements.

The snow on the hills between this city and Barre caused streams of water to rise high and new brooks across the highway were formed.

The water was over the railroad tracks of the Montpelier & Wells River Railroad near South Ryegate, but it was expected that no trouble with the train service would result.

Reports from north of here were that the streams had gone into the roads in some places. Driftwood is floating downstream in this city.

Although it has not yet caused any serious damage, high water on the Winooski has resulted in withdrawing of the engineers' pontoon bridge built last fall to take the place of the steel structure between Winooski and Burlington swept away in the disastrous November flood.

Bus service out of Burlington has been seriously affected because the road to the south is impassable in many places and emergency field-detours have become slippery and hazardous.

Stoddard B. Bates, state highway commissioner, ordered the selectmen of the town of Boston to fence off the main highway between this city and Burlington, until such time as it is passable. The construction of a connecting link of the Central Vermont Railroad seemed to have set the water back, so that it made the road impassable.

At Jeffersonville 90 feet of a highway bridge over the Lamoille river gave way before an ice jam early today and went down stream. At Sheldon Springs the water was over the road, but no damage was reported from there.

At Richmond a temporary highway bridge has gone out, cutting off traffic from the south.

ting her other daughter, Mrs. Anna Witham at 16 Lowell st., Lynn, scarcely a mile distant.

Mrs. Calnure thought little more of the matter until her sister arrived at her house to see her mother. It was then learned that Mrs. Hooper had not reached her destination. The sisters communicated with their mother's home and with relatives, but without avail. They then reported the disappearance to the police.

Mrs. Hooper is described as a slender, active woman of 121 pounds, with considerable natural color. When last seen by her daughter she wore a reddish brown coat, goldenrod brown hat, tan stockings and low shoes. She carried a traveling bag and a pocketbook.

Not only did Mrs. Goodhue weather the night but she appeared to be cheered by the early morning visit of her daughter. Mrs. Coolidge was at the bedside of her mother from 1:45 a. m. to 2:45 a. m.

Mrs. Goodhue recognized Mrs. Coolidge and the two conversed for a few moments. The rest of the time Mrs. Coolidge sat by her mother's bedside with her friend, Mrs. Rufus B. Hills, who accompanied her from Washington.

Mrs. Coolidge arrived in Northampton at 12:26 a. m. With her were Mrs. Hills, Jack Hills, an Amherst College friend of John Coolidge; Lieut.-Comdr. Joel T. Boone, White House physician; John Coolidge and secret service agent John J. Fitzgerald.

Northampton, March 27 (INS)—Paths of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, en route here to visit her sick mother, and Judge Richard F. Irwin, with Mrs. Irwin, going to Washington to visit President Coolidge, crossed and neither was aware of it.

Judge Irwin, known as "Calvin Coolidge's political godfather," was not aware of the sudden turn for the worse of Mrs. Lemira Goodhue, Mrs. Coolidge's mother, when he left for a visit to the White House.

While Calvin Coolidge was studying law, Judge Irwin, then a practicing attorney, became acquainted with him, and is credited with being the first to advise Coolidge to enter politics.

'SPLITTING' OF STAR DOUBTED AT HARVARD

Harvard observatory professors today discredited reports from observatories in South Africa and Argentina that the famous star Nova Pictoris, discovered in 1925, had split.

Dispatches to this effect from La Plata observatory in Argentina and the Union of South Africa, after observations were made through mammoth 24-inch telescopes, reached the United States today, arousing great interest in astronomical circles.

According to Professor W. J. Luyten of Harvard observatory, the star has not split, but gives the appearance of having done so because of violent local commotions of an envelope of gas a million times thinner than air which surrounds the star.

"It is very interesting, if true, but I doubt that the star has split," said Prof. Luyten today.

"The new star came up in May, 1925, and like all new stars, 'Nova Pictoris' has now reached its greatest brightness. The light of the star illuminates its surroundings as it expands 1000 miles a second, causing explosions.

"It is now probably descending and appears hazy because its contour is expanding. The star is surrounded by an envelope of gas a million times thinner than air. This envelope is in violent commotion. The result is that there may have occurred a local condensation of gas which would form at a point near the star and give the appearance of another star. This phenomena is not new."

of the Navy Wilbur, the court placed blame jointly on Comdr. Baylis and the commander of the submarine, with a shade the greater blame on the latter. Comdr. Baylis was later held blameless by a Treasury Department board of investigation.

The inspection of the ill-fated submersible by the court, consisting of Rear Admirals R. H. Jackson and Julius L. Latimer and Capt. J. V. Ogan, lasted nearly two hours.

"We learned nothing we did not already know from reports sent to Washington last week," members said unofficially afterwards.

"The outstanding feature is perhaps the rupture of the pipes in the control room which, as previously revealed to the public, allowed water in the control room and short-circuited the switchboards.

"That water drove the men out of the control room and robbed them of a chance to raise the vessel themselves. Both dynamos were found to be dead."

The court then went into session to hear the two witnesses, Commander E. F. Wright and Lieut.-Comdr. F. F. Eldredge of the board of investigation which examined the S4 when it was placed in drydock last week.

These two showed the court through the submarine on the inspection. Capt. J. D. Willson, head of the board of investigation, was also present, as was Lieut.-Comdr. Thomas J. Doyle, counsel for the officers and men of the S4.

The taking of testimony from Eldredge and Enwright was delayed until a Coast Guard representative could be present. The board wired to Washington headquarters of the guard regarding this and was informed that Capt. Eugene Bibbs, commander of the eastern division, would be present.

Since the submarine was inspected indrydock by the board of investigation facts had been learned that surprised naval officers but it was not generally though these would affect the court of inquiry's report.

Toad in Mud Ball Is 750,000 Years Old; Yes, Maybe

Denver, March 27 (INS)—City Park Museum here was a popular place for curiosity seekers today because of the arrival of a toad estimated to be three-fourths of a million years old.

When a mud ball was received from A. H. Holloman of Fredrick, Okla., Harold J. Cook, honorary curator, opened it to find what was inside. To his great surprise, out hopped a toad, apparently in normal condition.

Officials of the museum declined to hazard any statement as to how old the toad might be.

"The mud ball bears unmistakable evidence of belonging to the first interglacial," said Cook. "That would make it about three-quarters of a million years old.

"I am familiar with the place where it was found. It is the bed of a prehistoric stream, which is now a hilltop. A number of fossil bones and implements of prehistoric man have been found in the same vicinity."

BORAH MOVES ON OIL CASE

Committee to Ask Hays if He Complied With Law

Washington, March 27 (AP)—When Will H. Hays is recalled before the Senate Teapot Dome Committee after his return from Europe he will be asked if in handling the $260,000 of Sinclair Continental Trading Co. bonds used to help wipe out the Republican party debt, he complied with the law requiring a detailed account of his contribution to be made to the treasurer of the Republican National Committee.

He will also be asked about the testimony of Joseph F. Connery of Chicago that the former Cabinet officer speculated in Sinclair stocks after the lease of Teapot Dome.

While Hays passed $60,000 of the Sinclair contribution along to the late Fred W. Upham, then treasurer of the Republican National Committee, there is no evidence in the record that he made a detailed report to Upham concerning the disposition of the whole amount.

As a result of that visit in the small hours, Mrs. Goodhue was reported to have rallied and to have spent a restful night.

The first lady hurried into the hospital without waiting to pose for the photographers and went at once to her mother.

Judging from the last sentence of Dr. Hayes' bulletin, it was believed he feared that because of her years Mrs. Goodhue would be unable much longer to fight off the ailment against which she is battling.

While Miss Spring temporarily retires behind the wings to recuperate after her 10 days' rehearsal hereabouts, Old Man Winter will step out front tonight to divert New England until her return.

Preceding his appearance a few showers made their bow.

Speeding eastward from the Mississippi valley in a series of one-night stands, the belated visitor succeeded in his old trick of shrinking the mercury column to points below freezing, reducing it to 13 above at Detroit, 29 above at Buffalo and 28 above at Pittsburgh.

He is predicted to chill Greater Boston tonight to a temperature of 30 above or thereabouts, assisted by west, or northwest gales.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight and Wednesday; much colder tonight; west or northwest gales, diminishing late tonight.

CHICAGO GANGSTER SLAIN IN BURGLARY

Chicago, March 27 (INS)—Joseph Pargoni, 24-year-old brother of "Patsy" Pargoni, leader of the notorious "42" gang, was shot and killed today in a gun battle with Oak Park police. Pargoni and two other men were surprised by police, according to the latter's report, in the act of looting a dress shop.

DAY NURSERY CARES FOR 44 LITTLE CHARGES

Mrs. Ida M. Brown, superintendent of the South End Day Nursery, reports that 44 children are now registered and that an average of 32 now attend the nursery daily. There are 32 families represented among the 44 youngsters registered.

These boys and girls are sent to the nursery because of inadequate income, separation or divorce, and because of death of the father and mother. The children are admitted to train both for physical and mental habits. Health habits are taught, such as care of teeth, proper bathing, etc. Mothers are instructed in the correct care of their children.

Sleep and diet are especially emphasized.

The children are assisted in their training by nursery maids sent from the Household Nursing Association. The youngsters range in age from six months to eight years. Those of school age are sent to their classes and return to the South End Day Nursery for their dinners and after school return lunches of crackers and milk. When necessary, suppers are also served.

The spacious sun-porch at the nursery affords excellent sunlight to the children during the cold months of the year.

Wife Says Hubby Feted Peaches at Wine Party

Armstead told how he saw Peaches and Allen holding the party from a sun parlor.

Mrs. Katherine Allen, beautiful ex-actress wife of the booking agent, has seven armed guards doing patrol duty about Bally Duff, the Allen estate, to keep her husband away. She says she never wants him back.

Declaring nothing under the sun can make him go back to her after she sent his trunks to the Hotel Forrest, in West 49th st., in care of "Peaches," Allen says he will sue for a separation.

Meanwhile Mrs. Frances Heenan Browning, otherwise "Peaches," asserts she will bring suit against Mrs. Allen for slander. Allen declares he hopes she wins if she starts action.

He Calls for Champagne

Armstead said:

"On Wednesday, February 15, Mrs. Allen left for Florida. We did not see Mr. Allen or hear from him until Saturday morning next. He came home, packed a few clothes in a bag and disappeared.

"Late that afternoon he phoned and said he was bringing company for Sunday dinner. He ordered me to prepare two bottles of choice champagne, a broiled chicken and several vegetables.

"He said he would be in about 2:30 Sunday afternoon. At 3:30 he showed up with a woman he called 'Frances.' I recognized her as 'Peaches' Browning. I'd seen her a few times at White Plains.

"Mr. Allen and Mrs. Browning sat down in the dining room. I particularly tried to let my wife help me serve them so that she could see the famous 'Peaches.'

"After I'd brought in the soup I stood behind the kitchen door and looked into the dining room. Mr. Allen and Mrs. Browning couldn't see me.

"Mr. Allen took a little box out of his pocket and held it up before her. She said, 'O, how sweet!' and jumped up from her chair and kissed him. He motioned to her to sit down and said, 'Take it easy, kid.'

"He then handed her the open box. She took a diamond bracelet out of it.

"During the course of the dinner there was champagne. I kept filling the glasses up. After the last course I fixed up the cordial. Mr. Allen told me I could go.

House "Too Small"

"In the meantime, my wife, Gussie, and Miss Mullen, the baby's nurse, were taking over the second floor balcony. I joined them there.

"Mrs. Browning and Allen later came in and sat on the couch in the living room. Mr. Allen said: 'What do you say about the house, sweetie? Would you like to have it?' Peaches said, 'O, I like it all right, but it is much too small.'

"Mr. Allen said, 'I'd like to give you this house.'

"Peaches just laughed. Then they talked about the show business for a while. At about 5:30 Mrs. Browning and Mr. Allen went upstairs and asked Miss Mullen to show them the bbay. She did.

"While they were looking at the baby Mr. Allen tapped Mrs. Browning on the shoulder and said: 'I'd still like to make you a present of this house.'

"Then I locked myself into a little sun porch. There was a window there, and I could look right into the room where Mrs. Allen used to sleep.

"About 9:30, after Mr. Allen had shown "Peaches" the bar downstairs, they came upstairs again. About 11:15 they left the house. This was Sunday. We did not hear from Mr. Allen again until Wednesday, when he phoned me and fired me."

Mrs. Allen, feted at a birthday party St. Patrick's night, in the Ambassadors' Club, by her husband, is said to have identified a bracelet "Peaches" wore as one of her own. Allen admits he bought his stage client a bracelet; he denies he borrowed Mrs. Allen's.

$250,000 in Gems

The wife of Browning flatly denies she has missed any jewels of her agent's wife. Challenging Mrs. Allen to come and take the bracelet in question away from her if she can prove it is her's "Peaches" said:

"It's right out of my own jewel box. I've got $250,000 worth of bracelets. Any any one of them, even the worst, is better than any of Mrs. Allen's.

Today Mrs. Allen's seven armed detectives from the New York agency of Robert McLellan guarded the Larchmont Manor House, where in she rested under a nervous strain in a purple-canopied Louis XVI. bed.

A trio of armed detectives conveyed to vaults in this city $250,000 worth of jewelry and securities that had been in the Allen residence.

A reporter today repeated to Mrs. Allen accusations made against her by her husband. The allegations included:

That she twice has been arrested for intoxication.

That she drinks heavily.

That, though she is wealthy, their $100,000 home did not originally belong to her; instead, that he purchased both it and their two most expensive automobiles, making presents to her of all three.

That she left for Florida February 13, leaving Mary Jane, their baby, there four months, in charge of a nurse, but taking along two Pekinese dogs.

Once Tried Suicide

After giving an attentive ear to the list, Mrs. Allen said:

"They're all nonsense and perfectly ridiculous. There isn't an atom of truth in any of his implications."

Lloyd Anches, of the Larchmont police department, said of Mrs. Allen:

"She never has been arrested in Larchmont. I admire her, and I envy her the spotless reputation she bears. She enjoys a reputation in Larchmont absolutely without a smirch or whisper of ill-being."

On the Larchmont police records for June 25, 1927, is a notation of an attempt at suicide by Mrs. Allen.

EDGAR ALLEN

Booking agent for 'Peaches' Browning. His wife charges he and 'Peaches' are too friendly. He has denied this and now threatens to sue wife for separation.

Despondency drove her to drink iodine, according to the files, prompt administration of antidotes by her husband probably forestalling her death.

The discharged valet, Armstead, and his wife entered the Allen employ January 15. The new valet and his wife, together with the others of a new staff of domestics which Allen hired, were discharged by Mrs. Allen not long after her return from Florida.

At the Broadway theater, where "Peaches" daily is running through the abbreviated song and dance act she perfected in the West, her latest notoriety reveals andything but a dimming effect.

She got eight curtain calls at last night's performance. Her melody about "She's gind she is single again; she'll never marry a millionaire again," seemed to please.

Yet "Peaches" really isn't single; she's only separated from her husband, who is now engrossed in moving his real estate office from W. 72nd st. to roomier quarters on Broadway.

"Peaches" seemed today to be of the opinion that Browning would not be averse to a divorce. She went so far as to say:

"Mr. Borwning, more than likely, has something to do with all this trouble."

And what does the usually loquacious "Daddy" think? He's just saying thus:

"I'm busy moving, but I've had time to form my opinion on this. I'll be ready to tell about them very soon. Will they be interesting? Oh, not at all—neither was Lindbergh's flight."

Plans to Sue Wife

"Peaches" and her mother retired to their apartment in the Forrest immediately after the Cinderella girl's final night performance. A private detective and two from the Forrest's staff escorted both through the lobby to an elevator.

At the last minute "Peaches" had called off a quiet party she and Allen were to have enjoyed. At the Alamac Hotel, where Allen's steamer trunks finally found haven in a room he engaged, the booking agent said:

"I will sue at once for a separation. Nothing under the sun can make me go back to her. I know, and so does Peaches, that my wife has no grounds for a divorce.

"Mrs. Allen has no reason for it all. She saw fit to throw my trunks out of the house. I'll admit that she owns the house, but I paid for it."

His counsel, Julius Kendler, 1540 Broadway, said:

"We do not feel that Mrs. Allen is at the bottom of all this. We believe she has been influenced."

He exhibited two telegrams Allen claimed his wife sent him from Rochester last Friday. Detectives working form Mrs. Allen had maintained she started for Rochester to fool her husband into thinking she was out of town, but in reality had alighted from the train at Harmon and returned to New York.

The first wire read:

"Arrived safely here. Feeling fine. Love. Katherine."

The second read:

"Sorry to miss your phone call, dear. Everything fine so far. Hope to get to Utica tonight, but not sure. Will advise you. Papa wants to stay over Sunday. Surely miss you darling. Hope you are feeling better. Love to you and Mary Jane. Katherine."

Talks About Parties

In outlining what her detectives had observed, Mrs. Allen stated:

"Six times while I was in Florida my husband Mrs. Browning came here. On at least three of these occasions they were alone.

"Mrs. Browning would order dinner and champagne. Anything that did not please her was changed, in fact, because she did not like the arrangement all the furniture in the house was moved and even some of the hanging and other furnishings changed.

"I have no intention of obtaining a divorce. I have no evidence for a divorce, and did not seek it. I merely wanted to convince myself that a separation was justified.

"Whether I will seek a legal separation I do not know. But I shall keep my husband from the house. If necessary, I will get a court order to do that."

GERMAN FLIERS HOP FOR U. S. TOMORROW

chine is being used for petrol. It carries neither radio nor lifesaving apparatus for emergency in event of mishap at sea.

"The plane functioned perfectly during the flight from Berlin and we have every reason to hope for success," said Koehl, through an interpreter, "It is true we are taking chances to-day so early in the year, but we are pitting [illegible] ambition to be the first to make the westward flight against the perils of sea and air."

Loose will act as relief pilot on the flight.

EGG OAK MASCOT

Baron von Huenfeld also was confident of the success of the flight. He is custodian of the expedition's sole talisman, a small cross of bog oak from Connemara.

The plane bears the distinguishing letters "D-1167." The name Bremen is painted on the fuselage in large black letters. When fully loaded the machine weighs five tons.

With its hopoff shrouded in mystery, the plane left from Templehofer Airdrome, Berlin, at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and arrived here nine hours and ten minutes later.

NO BAD STORMS

Weather indications over the Atlantic were reported as being similar in many respects to conditions prevailing at the time Capt. Walter Hinchliffe, the British "Ace," and Miss Elsie Mackay, daughter of Lord Inchcape, hopped off on their ill-fated flight.

No storms of any great intensity were reported, but low temperatures and overhanging clouds would be encountered almost over the entire route, weather experts predicted.

Capt. Koehl attempted to conquer the Atlantic in a westward flight last year, but was forced to give up the attempt because of terrific headwinds. He is rated as a cool, capable flier and has been planning the present attempt since his failure last year.

He is said to be far from foolhardy and very likely to return even after he starts if weather conditions en route do not meet with his approval.

The Bremen is a sister ship of the Europa, which also made an unsuccessful flight attempt last year. The Europa was wrecked in a forced landing after going only a short distance.

WORLD'S RECORD MOTOR.

Koehl's plane has a fuel capacity which is said to be sufficient to keep it aloft from 35 to 40 hours. It is powered with a motor of the same type as that which now holds the world's record for endurance flying.

The fliers are being shielded by officials of the Baldonnel field from interviewers, photographers and others who try to see them, so that they may be insured a "complete rest until their departure."

If the weather is unfavorable the fliers will wait here no longer than 10 days. If it has not cleared by that time they will return to Berlin.

Mabel Boll Signs Stultz for Transocean Flight

New York, March 27 (AP)—Still hoping to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic, Miss Mabel Boll today was making plans for an attempt with Wilmer Stultz as pilot. The "Queen of Diamonds" announced that she had signed Stultz as pilot and was negotiating for the trimotored Fokker originally intended for Commander Richard E. Byrd's South Pole expedition. She said she planned daily training flights to qualify for a pilot's license so as to take her turn at the "stick" on the proposed ocean hop some time in May.

Lufthansa Disclaims All Responsibility for Flight

Berlin, March 27 (INS)—The German Lufthansa today definitely disclaimed all responsibility for the projected transatlantic flight of Capt. Koehl in his plane, the Bremen, by announcing that he had automatically "fired" himself from the company employ when he hopped off from Berlin for Baldonnel.

"Koehl broke his contract and thereby dissociated himself from us," company officials stated.

Meanwhile, high army aviation officials and the German press continued extremely skeptical of the practicability of the flight at this time. Only a few papers comment favorably upon the project.

Mrs. Herman Koehl, wife of the pilot, was overjoyed at her husband's success in the first part of the flight.

"I am delighted," she said, "that the first stage of the flight has been so successful. No I am not going to Ireland. There would not be time. They may start any time."

Well Wishes Sent by Crosscup-Pishon Post to Fliers

The Crosscup-Pishon Post of the American Legion, which numbers among its members many aviators who saw service against Germany in the World War, sent the following message to the three intrepid airmen of Germany who are expected to attempt a transatlantic flight:

Baron von Huenefelde, Military Flying Field,

Dublin, Ireland.

The Crosscup-Pishon Post of the American Legion, named for two aviators who fought for America during the World War, prays that the Great Pilot in His infinite wisdom will guide you and your comrades safely to our shore.

WHEN JOHN GOT ROBBED—WELL N. Y. KNOWS IT!

New York, March 27 (INS)—The service in New York is terrible, John E. Esthert, 30, of Waukesha, Wis., called for a policeman and this is what he got:

Esthert, who was visiting the city for his employes, Quaries & Co., investment bankers, of Milwaukee, went to the movies last night. After the show he called a taxicab and gave directions to drive to his hotel.

The cab bucked along like a movie bronco for some time. Then it stopped and the driver opened the door. The street outside resembled a dark alley. The driver yanked Esthert out. Socko! The driver bit Esthert. The driver took from him $200 and a gold watch and chain. Neglecting to ask for a tip, the driver drove away.

The streets were deserted except for three youths with caps huddled on a nearby corner discussing international politics.

"I've been robbed!" declared Esthert. "Where can I get a policeman?"

"Ain't that awful," said the first youth.

"He needs a cop," said youth No. 2.

"Better ring that there box," suggested the fourth youth.

They led him over to a lamppost on which was a square iron box, painted a nice new bright red and Esthert turned the handle. Came a wailing of sirens and then a fleet of fire engines.

A battalion chief extended greetings to Esthert.

"I want a policeman," said Esthert.

Those officials soon came legging it from all directions. They soon told Esthert the difference between a fire alarm box and a policeman—and forgave him.

MARINES RELY ON BOMBS TO ELIMINATE SANDINO

Managua, Nicaragua, March 27 (AP)—With the rainy season a little more than a month off, when jungle fighting will be difficult, the belief is growing among the American Marines that Gen. Augustino Sandino, rebel leader, can elude them indefinitely.

The only hope the Americans see of eliminating Sandino is that bombs dropped from an airplane might wipe out his camp.

Sergt. Edward F. Rowe of Malden, Mass., was wounded slightly in the left arm at Condega when a rebel slipped out of the jungle, fired at him and vanished.

ARLINGTON POLICE PROBE AUTO CRASH

Arlington police have launched an investigation into a crash between two automobiles on Broadway, near Everett st., which sent two men to the Symmes Hospital, injured several others and wrecked both machines.

Charles Grady of Dawdon st., Arlington, and Albert Vanors of 704 Main st., Wakefield, were rushed to the Symmes Hospital suffering from cuts and bruises. William Ahern, Leo Kenna, both of Palmer st., Arlington, and J. O'Hanlon of Webster st., Arlington, occupants of Grady's car, were cut by flying glass when thrown through the windshield.

WOMAN HELD FOR BIGAMY FURNISHES SURETIES

Bangor, Me., March 27—June Marie Decker of this city, arraigned in municipal court on a charge of bigamy, was held in $1000 bond for her appearance at the May term of superior court. She furnished sureties.

The respondent testified that Clayton Murphy, who she declared to have married here on June 21, 1921, assured her they had not been married but had merely filed intentions to marry. Relying on this statement, the respondent said she married Willard F. Walton in this city on March 8.

COOLIDGE DECLINES CAROLINA INVITATION

Washington, March 27—President Coolidge has written Senator Simmons of North Carolina, that it is "rather doubtful" that he will be able to accept invitations to spend the summer in that State.

The letter said he Coolidge would no be able o make a final decision as to his vacation plans "for some little time yet." He had received invitations to spend the summer at Asheville, N. C.

2 DEAD IN BIG FLOOD IN WEST; HUNDREDS FLEE

San Francisco, March 27 (AP)—Flood waters roared through northern and central California and western Nevada with renewed violence today.

Hundreds of persons were homeless in California, where two deaths were attributed to floods, and property damage was estimated at upward of $100,000. The city of Reno, Nev., also was threatened with further inundation.

Continuous rains over the northern portion of the state, high winds, snow flurries at Reno and in the Sierra range near there, aggravated the situation.

Reno, already partly inundated by the rush of waters from the Truckee river, was in the path of another four-foot rise, and a flood warning was spread through the lowlands.

The California flood center shifted momentarily from North Sacramento valley, as reports received here showed scores of places inundated by the Feather, Bear, Sacramento and Yuba rivers.

The crest of these flood waters will not be reached, it is believed, for about 18 hours at points below Marysville.

The town of Biggs is reported under 14 inches of water. At Oroville, 5 miles away, 50 families were rendered homeless. The United States Giant introduction gardens as well as the state land colony, near Durham, were flooded. At the land colony hundreds were forced to flee from their homes.

WILL OF QUINCY LABOR LEADER IS ALLOWED

The will of Dominic D'Alessandro, Quincy labor leader, was allowed by Judge Joseph E. McCoole in Dedham Probate Court and Timothy F. Daly of Stoughton was appointed administrator.

The allowance of the will follows a settlement favorable to the widow, Mrs. Philomena D'Alessandro, who was cut off in the will with $600 a year. The remainder was left to Elizabeth Heuseman, his secretary.

Under the terms of the settlement it is said the widow is to obtain a large portion of the estate, possibly one-half.

MAN WHO PICKED COOLIDGE FOR PRESIDENT IS DEAD

North Adams, March 27 (AP)—Arthur M. Nichols, known here as the first man to name Calvin Coolidge as a presidential prospect, was found dead at his home today. He introduced Coolidge as "a future President" at a sportsman's banquet in this city when the President was Lieutenant-Governor.

Nichols also claimed to be the oldest game warden in years of service in the country, having served 31 years. In his youth he and his brother, Albert G. Nichols, were claimants of the trick roller skating championship of the world.

KNIT GOODS MEN ORGANIZE TO AID INDUSTRY

Knit goods manufacturers of New England will organize an association for the purpose of solving problems peculiar to that industry in New England, according to announcement today by the research committee of the New England Council.

These problems will be solved, if possible, according to the announcement, by the exchange of ideas and information and by research into the group problems of management, manufacturing and marketing.

The industry employs 20,000 persons in the New England States and the value of its yearly product is $80,000,000.

R. W. Sulloway

R. W. Sulloway, of the Sulloway Mills, Franklin, N. H., chairman of the committee on organization of the new association, is signing the letters going out to all knit goods manufacturers in New England outlining the purposes and advantages of the organization and inviting enrollment in the membership.

Chairman A. Lincoln Filene of the research committee, commenting on the new association, declared:

"The committee is in contact with the leaders of many New England industries. In each industry there is evidence of a growing realization that the 'hunch' method of conducting a business must be supplanted by the application of research in order to operate profitably.

"The research committee believes one of the most vital tools at hand for New England industries is cooperative research and it is particularly gratifying to see that one of the first groups with which this committee at its inception had contact is giving active recognition of this principle.

"The move cannot fail to be of the greatest value to the knit goods industry of New England, as well as to each individual unit which participates in it."

INSURANCE AGENTS WILL MEET IN JUNE

The wives, daughters and sweethearts of the fire insurance men of New England, who have been anxiously awaiting news of the date for the holding of the mid-summer "pow-wow," will be interested in the announcement made that the 51st annual convention of New England insurance agents will be held again this year on June 21 and 22 at the Poland Spring House, South Poland, Me.

JAMAICA LURES BOSTON GOOD WILL PARTY

By BERT FORD.

On Board S. S. Calamares, March 27 (Via Tropical Radio Telegraph Cable)—The "Good Will" expedition from Boston Chamber of Commerce is approaching Port Antonio, second port of call. All hands are eager for the two-day stay among the tropical beauties of Jamaica, gem of the West Indies.

We are to spend the day at Hotel Titchfield. This will give the "Good Will" pilgrims from New England their first chance for a dip in the Caribbean.

The party will take the famous 9-mile motor trip through the mountains to Kingston, where they will have luncheon at the Myrtle Bank Hotel and view the extensive banana plantations of the United Fruit Company. The Calamares, flagship of the United Fruit Company's "white fleet," will meet us at Kingston, from which port we shall sail for Cristobal, our first stop in the Canal Zone.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A double birthday party was held at dinner Saturday evening. The ship's cook made two gorgeous cakes decked with lighted candles which waiters placed on the sideboard. J. Paul Foster, cruise manager for the Chamber of Commerce, announced that two members of the party observed birthdays Thursday but that the celebration had to be deferred owing to the shore program at Havana.

He presented a cake to W. Herbert Howard, retired, of Brockton, eldest of the "Good Will" broadcasters, who is 79 years old, and the other cake to Vice-President William J. Fortune of Shawmut National Bank, the popular leader of the "Good Will" expedition, who attained his 41st milestone. Mr. Fortune, official orator of the expedition, replied for himself and Mr. Howard was roundly applauded.

RADIOGRAM FROM CUTTER.

A radiogram from Victor M. Cutter, president of the United Fruit Company, read by Mr. Foster, was vigorously applauded.

Arthur A. Howard, vice-president of the Tileston & Hollingsworth Company, Boston, made a motion that the "Good Willers" return their greetings to Mr. Cutter and it was adopted with a roar of applause.

A bridge tournament followed. First prize for ladies, a beautiful bridge set, was won by Mrs. Rose E. Knowleton of Detroit. The second prize, a silver vase, was won by Mrs. Rudolph F. Koops of Boston. Richard Brunel of Worcester, architect, won first prize for men—fine desk set, including fountain and pencil. William E. Clark of Sharon won second prize, a cigar lighter.

VETERAN OF THE B. & A. DIES IN WORCESTER

Worcester, March 27—William Callanan, division freight agent of the Boston & Albany R. R. at Worcester, died today at the Worcester hospital where he had been a patient three weeks. He had been in the service of the Boston & Albany since 1893.

Callanan was unmarried and is survived by his father, six brothers and three sisters. The funeral will be at Hopkinton at the St. John the Evangelist Church, Thursday. A special train to carry those who will attend the services will leave South Station, Boston, at 7:45 a. m., and will return after the funeral.

INSANITY MADE CAUSE OF MARRIAGE ANNULMENT

Albany, March 27 (INS)—Marriages may be annulled if the husband or wife has been afflicted for five years with incurable insanity, under the Wales bill approved today by Governor Smith.

MUST WAIT 14 YEARS FOR LOST MAN'S ESTATE

For 14 years the relatives of William Diskin, late drawbridge tender in Charlestown, must wait for his estate to be settled, the stern law not being satisfied that he is dead, as nobody saw him die, though unquestionably he was swept from his post during the gale of last January 21.

His was seen on the bridge by a tug crew. They saw him act the red flags on one end of the bridge and they saw him start for the other end to set the flags there. It is a single track trestle made of beams and ties, open-work construction, so the tug crew could have seen him if he went anywhere but into the water.

The gale was terrific and they saw him fight his way across the bridge until he suddenly disappeared. Not a trace of him or his body has ever been found. His lunch and his bottle of coffee were found in his shanty.

REPORTED DROWNED

He was a man of 80, a veteran of 60 years' service with the railroad. He was happy, peaceful and contented that morning when he left his modest home at 39 Rossmore rd., Somerville.

Everyone agrees that he was swept into the water by the gale. Police boats were sent in the scene and the police dragged the bottom for his body. The piling which supports the tracks makes grappling difficult and offers unlimited opportunity for the clothing of a drowned man to catch and hold the body beneath the surface.

Dragging proved futile and divers were engaged. They had no better success. The newspapers printed the story of the affair as a drowning. The police recorded it as a drowning. But the courts demand more than that. A statement must be made, under oath, by someone, that he is dead. And there is no one who can swear to it.

DISCOVER HITCH

His relatives discovered the hitch when they applied to the Probate Court for the right to administer the estate. His nephew Edward P. Diskin of 107 River st., Waltham, was told about the required oath at court and he finally consulted his attorney, Thomas F. Duffy of Waltham.

Duffy and the court officials explained that, unless the body could be produced or someone who actually saw him drown, and is willing to say so under oath, comes forward, the estate cannot be settled for 14 years.

The nephew then applied to be appointed receiver for the "absentee," as the man is classified in court. Not until 14 years does court officials say, can the $650 house be sold and the proceeds divided among the surviving relatives.

A. & P. HOLDUP MAN GETS $46 IN HAVERHILL

Haverhill, March 27—Carl Slayforf, 27, manager of the A. & P. store at 434 Washington st, and Philip Slayforf, 16, a cashier, of 441 Washington st., were bicked into a rear room today by an armed holdup man. After vainly searching the pair for money, the robber took a package of cigarettes and his keys from Slayoff, went to the cash register and extracted the $46 it contained and then escaped.

FRANCE NEGOTIATES ON WAR DEBT ANNUITIES

Paris, March 27 (AP)—The French government is negotiating with Washington and London for a new provisional accord providing for payment of the 1928 and 1929 annuities on the war debts.

The agreement would involve payment of $30,000,000 to Washington and £8,000,000 to London between July 1, 1928, and July 1, 1929.

MUST FIND MAN OR PAY $3000

Michael Barbarien, Lynn man, like the Northwest "mountie," must get his man.

Barbarien must find his friend, Michael Stathias, and produce him in Federal Court at Boston within 10 days or pay the United States $3000.

An action in the United States Court at Boston was begun by Asst. U. S. Atty. John V. Spalding against a bond of that amount posted by Barbarien in May, 1927, to release Stathias on bail from the custody of the captain of the Greek steamship S. S. Byron, at New York, on which Stathias was to be deported to Greece.

When the steamship arrived in Boston en route to the Piraeus, Stathias was released on writ of habeas corpus, alleging an unfair hearing at Ellis Island N. Y.

An order was issued for Stathias to appear before Judge Morton on May 16, 1927, but he did not appear nor did Barbarien. Department of Justice agents have been searching for Stathias since.

COUNTY BUDGET IS PASSED BY COUNCIL

Despite torrid debating the City Council passed without reduction the budget of $3,405,863 for the expenses of Suffolk County.

Councillor John I. Fitzgerald was charged with steam-rolling the bill through.

As chairman of the committee of appropriations, Councillor Fitzgerald was the target of a barrage of hot shots hurled by Councillors Ward, Dowd, McMahon, Bush, Wilson and Mahoney, who protested that he sought to put the budget over without inviting the Councillors and the press to sit in with the committee.

FORMER HOST OF QUEEN MARIE UNDER ARREST

Los Angeles, March 27 (INS)—Police here today awaited word from Chicago concerning arrangements for the transfer of Eliel Stanich, who came into the International limelight by entertaining Queen Marie in Seattle during the Rumanian Queen's American tour. He was taken custody here on a Chicago warrant, charging irregularities in his dealings with an Illinois film production concern.

250 MAROONED 17 HOURS AS SHIP GROUNDS IN FOG

Detroit, March 27 (INS)—Tugs were attempting today to float the steamer City of Detroit III, which went aground in a fog in the Livingston channel. More than 250 passengers were marooned for 17 hours.

Fifth of Family to Win Phi Beta Kappa Key

Middletown, Ct., March 27—Stephen A. Larabee of Waterville, Me., elected to Phi Beta Kappa as Wesleyan University, is the fifth member of his family to win that academic honor.

An older brother, Eliot, was made a member at Wesleyan last June, while two sisters, Catherine and Elizabeth, and another brother, Ralph, were elected at Colby.

U. S. BECOMES PAGAN, SAYS M. E. BISHOP M'CONNELL

Jerusalem, Palestine, March 27 (AP)—The United States is in many respects pagan, Bishop Francis J. McConnell, head of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Pittsburgh district, told the International Missionary Council here. "We Americans have little to be complacent about," he said. "We subscribe to militarism and our national God is the pursuit of wealth. I want this meeting to be a challenge to my country and also to Christians in foreign lands who may be tempted to adjust themselves to pagan social systems."

LOST HUB FLIER ONLY HELD UP BY SNOW

While search was being made in the Pennsylvania mountains for Aviator Arnold F. Sullivan of Beverly, en route from Ohio to Boston in a biplane, the young man was safe and preparing to fly from Emporia, Penn., today, according to his father, Eugene F. Sullivan of Railroad ave., Beverly.

When told that dispatches today from Beaver, Penn., reported a wide search of the Pennsylvania mountains was under way for his son, Mr. Sullivan of Beverly said: "I talked with my son on the telephone yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. He called me from Emporia and said he had been held up for a week on account of snow. He said he expected to leave Emporia today and fly to Boston, reaching the Boston airport this afternoon. I can't understand how such a report got abroad."

According to the Beaver dispatches Sullivan is flying a biplane for his company, a St. Louis manufacturer, to a Boston lawyer.

MANY PRAY FOR GIRL ILL FOR 11 YEARS

Woonsocket, R. I., March 27 (INS)—Investigation here today lifted the mystery surrounding the strange case of Miss Rose Ferron, 23, who had been said to bear the marks of the wounds of Christ's passion and crucifixion.

Investigators were of the belief that Miss Ferron's condition was in no way supernatural.

They revealed that the girl has been suffering for eleven years with what is known to medical men as spinal marrow, accompanied by blotches on the skin.

The investigation disclosed that the girl had not partaken of substantial food in three years. Her only food has been liquid and much of that has been only water with some stimulant added.

The skin blotches, appearing as they frequently have on the hands, feet and head, have given the impression that the girl supernaturally bore the wounds of the Saviour.

MADE AT NIAGARA FALLS

U. S. TO PROBE NEW CHICAGO BOMBINGS

Chicago, March 27 (INS)—Federal investigation of the bombings at the homes of United States Senator Charles S. Deneen and Judge John A. Swanson were promised today by United States District Attorney George F. G. Johnson.

The front porch and a large section of the front of Senator Deneen's palatial two-story residence were demolished by a powerful dynamite bomb.

Twenty minutes later a similar blast damaged the home of Judge Swanson, a candidate under the Deneen Republican banner for State's attorney of Cook County.

Deneen has departed for Washington after attending the funeral here of "Diamond Joe" Esposito, a Deneen ward leader who was shot to death last Wednesday night.

Deneen's sister, Miss Florence Deneen, and a maid were alone in the house when the bomb exploded.

Judge Swanson had just parked his car in front of his home when the second blast went off. The bomb was hurled by men who sped past in an auto. Swanson declared he was convinced the bomb was intended for him. It struck the house and bounded back into the yard, where it exploded.

In the home were his wife and two small children and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Klass.

The bomb outrages are attributed to the bitter political feud between Republican factions headed on one side by Deneen and on the other by Gov. Len Small, Mayor William Hale Thompson and State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

Crowe announced a reward of $10,000 would be paid for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for the bombings.

Crowe declared it was his belief the bombings were done by leaders in the Deneen organization and by the same people responsible for similar attacks several weeks ago on the homes of Rev. Elmer L. Williams and Anthony Carnecki.

"I am satisfied last night's bombings were done by Deneen forces and done mainly to discredit Mayor Thompson and myself," said Mr. Crowe.

Deneen, in Washington, Says Political Foes Bombed Home

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Indignant over the bombing of his home in Chicago, Senator Charles S. Deneen, Republican, of Illinois, arrived here today and issued a declaration of defiance to "political enemies" whom he held responsible for the outrage.

"In my judgment," Deneen said, "the bombing was the work of the organized and protected criminal classes of Chicago and Cook County in their desperate efforts to retain control of the city and county."

Among those who met the Illinois Senator at the station was Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover.

Deneen said he had no fears for his personal safety and that he might return to Chicago tonight.

12 DRIVEN OUT BY SMOKE

Twelve occupants, including four women and four children, were driven to the street today by a fire in their home, 87 Florence st., Everett.

Those who fled the thick smoke rolling up from the basement of the house were: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Berman, owners and occupants of a first floor apartment; Mr. and Mrs. Philip Seltzerman and daughters, Lena, 3, and Jeanette, 4, occupants of the other downstairs suite; Mr. and Mrs. John Hallaway and daughter, Martha, 3, on the second floor, and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Misaras and son, Robert 4, on the top floor.

The basement fire caused a damage of $500.

MARIE AND ILEANA ON A MYSTERY TRIP

Constantinople, March 27 (AP)—Queen Marie of Rumania and Princess Ileana, who are enroute to the island of Cyprus, left Stamboul today.

Rumors are current that the trip is being taken for political purposes and that former Crown Prince Carol is also going to Cyprus. Rumanian circles here, however, claim it is being taken because of Princess Ileana's health.

MASKED MEN ESCAPE WITH REGISTERED MAIL

Terre Haute, Ind., March 27 (AP)—Two masked men held up three employes in the mail room at the Union Station here and escaped with two bags of registered mail and four bags of other mail. The robbers, apparently foreigners, escaped.

They carried sawed-off shotguns. The robbers were in the room 25 minutes. Before leaving, they slugged the three men and wired their hands together. The men were only stunned, however, and soon spread the alarm.

CLIVE TO SPEAK AT LEAGUE BENEFITS

With E. E. Clive, producer and manager of the Copley Theater as the attraction, the Women's Municipal League is staging two benefit performances, to be held on two successive Saturday mornings, at 11 o'clock, at the Copley Theater.

At the first, next Saturday morning, Clive will take as his subject "The Theater, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," and at the second, April 7, the history of Punch and Judy, with a real Punch and Judy show accompanying.

In the talk on the theater Clive draws from the history of the past the influences affecting the stage of today, explaining the present dearth of good plays and clean plays, the influence of the motion picture, the radio, the automobile and all changing conditions. He is, however, an optimist on the subject, and declares that the churches, the schools and the universities are coming to the aid of the theater as never before, with very gratifying results. Stage and drama classes and societies are showing an interest in this lecture.

TO AID GOOD CAUSES

While the Punch and Judy was originally planned to attract today's children, who almost never have an opportunity to see this ancient tragical comedy or comical tragedy, their fathers and mothers are showing an equal interest.

The proceeds of these lectures, which are the first benefit performances the league has given in two years, go to aid the many good causes sponsored by the league, most of which are supported by members and private charities.

The outstanding work of the present is the assistance given by the league to the character building courses now being given in the Boston public schools, a feature of our school life which educators all over the country are watching and adopting, and which was one of the most talked of subjects at the recent National Education Association conference here. Mrs. William R. Hedge of 371 Marlboro st. is chairman of this department.

Vacant lot gardens for city children from early spring until late fall is another feature of the work. More than 200 boys and girls, aged from 8 to 14 and of eight different nationalities receive regular instruction during the summer months.

CONDUCTS MUSIC FESTIVAL

The league also conducts the North Brighton Community house in the abattoir district of North Brighton, a center of help, education and inspiration in the neighborhood.

Among other activities, the league sponsors the better homes movement and the International Musical Festival, the aim of which is to bring about a better understanding of various races.

Tickets for the lectures may be had at the box office of the Copley Theater, Burke's ticket agency and at league headquarters, 25 Huntington ave., Kenmore 4758.

Junior league girls will usher at both performances and the committee in charge includes Mrs. Henry D. Tudor, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, 2d, Mrs. Ronald T. Lyman, Mrs. Edgar D. Shaw, Miss Evelyn Sears, Mrs. Stephen S. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Paul M. Hubbard.

SURVEY SHOWS BUSINESS UP

New York, March 27 (AP)—The New York World, which has made a survey of business conditions in the United States, epitomizes the results today as follows:

"Business in the United States is on the up-grade, with unemployment on the decrease.

"More than that, business bids fair to escape much of the halting uncertainty that usually has characterized presidential election years.

"To this survey, leaders in industry, labor leaders, bankers and national distributors have contributed, as have the leading statistical services. Much also has come from government agencies.

"The survey does not show that business is improving in all lines—bituminous and textiles, where special conditions govern, being outstanding exceptions—but, generally speaking, the reports show improved prospects reported in the great majority of lines.

"The outstanding factors are improvement in the building, steel and automobile industries.

"Improvement is also noted in agriculture, especially in the stock-raising branch, which is declared to have emerged from the severe depression that marked the collapse of the post-war boom."

20 AIR MAIL LINES ARE NOW OPERATED IN U. S.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 27 (AP)—There are now 20 air mail lines, the pilots on which fly 19,464 miles a day. By July 1 there will be 26 such lines, covering 25,760 miles a day. W. Irving Glover, second assistant postmaster general, in charge of air mail activities, made this statement today. He also said the amount of air mail carried had increased more than 700 pounds last month over the preceding month.

DAUGHTER OF BRITISH CONSUL GENERAL TO TREAD CARPET AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE

Miss Stella Mary Gray Will Be Presented at One of This Season's Courts, Says Betty Alden

A FEW WORDS FROM LONDON CAME CLICKING OVER THE cables a day or so ago. Magic words. Words that open up to the feminine world vistas of royal splendors and magnificences. Words that rouse awe and speculation, and envy too, in feminine hearts the wide world over. Just a short sentence it was containing for the very few chosen ones the open sesame to social supremacy and adulation. The cable announced that five Royal Courts are to be held this season at Buckingham Palace, instead of four, as usual.

THIS SEASON THERE ARE FIVE OF THESE OCCASIONS fraught with royal state and ceremonial, when maids all palpitant and matrons haughty-eyed may tread the red velvet path that ends before a throne. To a debutante her "coming-out" is replete with thrills. A wedding day is a milestone in feminine careers. But the evening a girl is presented at court marks the Alpha and Omega of her social ambitions. It bestows upon her the accolade of social supremacy. It raises her to the ranks of the chosen ones, the few so transcendentally exalted on whom royalty has bestowed its favor. It is a boon worth moving heaven and earth to attain.

SUCH STRINGS AS ARE PULLED! SUCH "INFLUENCE" AS IS brought to bear! How the court dressmakers do labor and how the maids and matrons do travel thousands and thousands of miles, and spend days and days of preparation for those few hours between dusk and midnight of the "evening at court." And well do they consider all this effort worth while, after that magic card from the Lord Chamberlain comes in the morning post stating that Miss So and So or Mrs. This and That is commanded to court to meet their Majesties. A thousand-fold might the effort be increased, and still the goal be worth striving for.

BREATHLESSLY COMES THE QUESTION, "WHO IS TO BE presented?" Boston's share in this glorification is never vicarious. Always is it well represented in the processional to the throne. This season the name of Miss Stella Mary Gray is on the list for court honors. And Miss Gray being somewhat to the manner born, as it were, and a delightful young girl as well, will, I am sure, manage her cartsy perfectly and carry off the prescribed accouterment of court train and ostrich plumes with perfect grace and poise. She is the second daughter of Mr. Edward Gray, British consul general, and Mrs. Gray. Miss Helga Gray, the elder daughter, has already been presented.

BOSTON HAS MANY ANOTHER LOVELY YOUNG GIRL CHARMing and well born and of exalted state, who would add grace to the procession of Peeresses and Ladies of the Realm at Buckingham. I could myself designate several well fitted for the honor. There is, for instance, the handsome younger daughter of Mrs. Bayard Thayer. Picture Miss Mabel Bayard Thayer dressed for court in glowing, iridescent gown, with the Prince of Wales plumes nodding above her perfectly coiffed blonde head. Could any country produce a lovelier specimen of girlish beauty or one by right of lineage and tradition more fitted for the honor?

AND THEN THERE IS MRS. GEORGE RICHMOND FEARING, 3D, dubbed the beauty of her coming-out year when she so briefly remained Vera Howell. For her the coming-out party took second place to wedding day. And now, whether she will or no, leadership in the younger fashionables is hers. Her youth and her beauty, her family's place in the social sun, all measure up to requirements for a court presentation. And then, too, there is Mrs. Robert L. Raymond, Jr., born a Howard and so kin with the proud and distinguished Howards of Great Britain.

HELGA GRAY STELLA GRAY

Daughters of British Consul-General Gray. The first has already been presented at court and the latter is to be accorded the honor this season.

WOULD ANY MAID IN THE ENTIRE LIST BE MORE IN THE picture of court richness than Miss Emelie Winslow, Tinhaired daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Cameron MacRae Winslow of Boston, New York, Newport and California. Enormous wealth and family influence would be sufficiently the open sesame to royal favor in Miss Winslow's case, even were she not endowed with rare personal charm and the ability to wear marvelous frocks with Parisian flavor allied to American dash.

WERE I COURT CHAMBERLAIN I'D GIVE A PROMINENT PLACE in the processional to Miss Ellen Hallowell, for her verve and spirit and dark-eyed beauty. And to Miss Natalie Winslow for her spirituelle charm and pale golden loveliness. To Miss Margery Richardson, graceful and rosiest-cheeked. To Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, born a Sears and now bearer of a name nationally distinguished. I'd put Miss Eloise Lawrence and Mrs. Gilbert Livingston Steward at the head of the list, for they, poor dears, were all slated to do the double curtsy, and would have done so, beautifully arrayed for the occasion, had not fate intervened.

IT WAS TWO YEARS AGO when both were in London after a year of study abroad. And before there was a Mrs. Steward, when she, who is now a happy matron, was Miss Anne Beekman Ayer. Both girls had one foot in Buckingham Palace, so to speak, when the United Kingdom was turned topsy turvy and everyone the length and breadth of it began thinking of coal and not of presentations at court. The shoulder-length gloves, Miss Ayer had purchased for her court appearance served another purpose, however, and laid in softly wrinkled folds clear to her shoulders on the evening when she was presented to society via an enormous and gorgeous ball. Not a bad substitute, at that, for magnificence and beauty.

TRITE IT IS, OF COURSE, BUT true, nevertheless, that one robin does not make a spring. But one Edith Parker in the cast can, and does, make a Vincent Club show. There is a youthful amateur with the art, the personality, that gets over the footlights to her audience in a manner not unlike that of the inimitable Janis, or of a Bayes, now fondly remembered. Would that Mrs. Chauncy Nash's Vincent Club cohorts might yield several such clever girls when shows are in the making and parts to be allotted. No production would suffer thereby.

NOR WOULD SEVERAL EXcellently-trained voices such as Mrs. Bayard Warren's come amiss in a show labeled "musical comedy" and at times verging on both music and comedy. "Presto, Change" gave one decided hit to Mrs. Warren, to her chic, her charm and the professional aplomb of her song numbers. "Presto, Change" is also deeply indebted to the Misses Betty Boulton, Helen Rust and Josephine Jewell, a limber-footed trio worthy a place on the "big time." And likewise indebted, for effects pictorial and Ziegfeldian as to line and habiliment, to Miss Frances Dewart and Mrs. Benjamin F. Rice Bassett, as stunning page boys as ever carried a trumpet. Society is, of course, faithful to its theatrical darlings. Where they are concerned it knows not the word mediocrity.

MRS. CHURCH DEMANDS MORE NEWPORT LIGHTS

Newport, R. I., March 27—Mrs. Frederick Cameron Church, Jr., the former Muriel Vanderbilt, demands more light in the vicinity of her summer residence, Dudley Place. With others she has petitioned the Middletown Town Council to have lights erected from One Mile Corner just over the line in Middletown where she resides, to the Two Mile Corner on the West Main road towards Fall River.

As there was no appropriation to cover this matter, no action was taken by the Town Council. Work has begun on the building of permanent roads around Mrs. Church's estate property.

LINDY RETIRES AS IDOL; JUST 'PLAIN CITIZEN'

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Acclaimed as no other individual in the history of the nation, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh officially withdrew himself from public focus today to follow his long cherished pursuit of a normal American citizen.

Weary of the jostling and admiring masses, decoration ceremonies and the constant formal affairs in his honor, the youth who has done more for aviation than any other man since the Wrights and Langleys calmly contemplated the future and how best he might sequit himself in the interest of his lone hobby.

Lindy doesn't know what he's going to do just yet. His Spirit of St. Louis was tuned up today at Bolling Field to take him whenever and wherever his heart desires, but it is safe to say he wants no reporters around when he takes off.

The flying colonel wound up his six-day propaganda school in aviation at the local army station yesterday by taking aloft more than 200 members of the Washington diplomatic crops and their friends, the majority of whom represented the Pan-American countries which Lindbergh recently toured as a good-will ambassador.

Taken up in 22 groups, they brought the flier's total passengers in six days to approximately 1100.

Orchestras in Merger

New York, March 27—Consolidation of the Philharmonic Society of New York, second oldest Symphony Orchestra in the world, with the Symphony Society of New York, was announced today by Clarence H. Mackay, chairman of the board of directors of the Philharmonic Society.

FRENCH PUZZLE OVER POPE'S ATTITUDE

Rome, March 27 (AP)—The address of Pope Pius criticizing the National Catholic Center party for its alleged slighting of its religious character in favor of closer cooperation with the Fascist government was the main topic of discussion today in diplomatic as well as ecclesiastical and Roman political circles.

The question was asked in non-Italian quarters if Daniel O'Connell's famous phrase, "Our faith from Rome, our politics from home," would not incur pontifical disapprobation if uttered today in the light of the Pope's newly revealed stand.

French Catholics were particularly puzzled in view of their forthcoming election on April 22. Instructions from Cardinal Gasparri, papel secretary of state, enjoined them to support the Republican regime in power. The Italian Catholics, however, have just been rebuked for overzealous support of the Fiscist regime.

True, there is no "Rohman question" between the French state and the vatican, as there is between the Vatican and the Italian state, but the lows of the French republic against the teaching of religious congregations and other measures, it was believed, could hardly have the Holy See's unqualified approval.

In the Pope's address of Sunday to the diocesan board of Rome one of the things to which he seemed particularly to object in the Fascist program was the brigading of the childhood and the youth of the nation to be educated in strict Fascist style.

The Pontiff asserted that the church alone was entrusted with the mission of Christian education and the formation of youthful character. This assertion was recognized by American Catholics as a simple reaffirmation of the church's policy regarding the necessity of the parochial system i nthe United States.

Find Two Stars Grow Where Only One Ought to Be

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, March 27 (AP)—Astronomical circles are deeply interested by the discovery that the star "Nova Pictoris," first discerned in South Africa in 1925, has split in two.

The La Plata observatory in Argentina recently reported to the Union of South Africa observatory that this star presented a very strange appearance. The South African astronomers resumed observations through their great 26-inch telescope and confirmed the Union that the star had split.

TO CALL FORD IN COAL INQUIRY

Washington, March 27 (INS)—Henry Ford may be called to testify at the Senate's coal investigation, committee members indicated today.

Information has been presented to the committee that Ford, who operates mines in West Virginia and Kentucky, pays his men $8 a day, while nearby open shop companies pay a top of $4 daily. The reported Ford scale is above the Jacksonville wage which the union is striking to maintain.

KELLOGG VISIT TO FRANCE IS DENIED

Washington, March 27—Acting Secretary of State Olds declared there was no foundation for the Paris report that Secretary Kellogg will visit the French capital during the coming summer to confer with Foreign Minister Briand on the outlawry of war.

Similar reports gained circulation about a year ago and went so far as to announce that Kellogg had selected a house in Paris. In fact, before the reports ceased he had chosen at least three houses. At that time it was intimated from abroad that Secretary Kellogg would resign and reside in Paris.

FARMS RELIEF BILL FACES NEW VETO

Washington, March 27 (INS)—President Coolidge's veto power appeared today to be the only stumbling block in the path of the drive of the Congressional farm bloc for the new McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

Despite indications that a veto awaits the measure, farm bloc leaders in Senate and House were campaigning to pass the bill by the middle of April.

An appeal will be made to President Coolidge to confer with farm organizations. Their spokesmen will go before the President with the declaration that they have met nine of the ten objections he raised in his veto message last year and are seeking a compromise on the tenth—the equalization fee.

Backers of a movement to write a bill that the administration is known to favor virtually abandoned hope of stemming the farm bloc drive. They were ridden over roughshot in the House agricultural committee, which voted to report the McNary-Haugen bill.

Senator McNary (Rep.) of Oregon and Representative Haugen (Rep.) of Iowa, authors and pilots of the new farm bill, are also said to have plaffy refused to consider any compromise measure after Mr. Coolidge writes a new veto message.

Hornsby Aims to Lead League Batting Help Braves to Climb

Ruth All Set Batters Are Aided Yanks Should Win

By Nick Flatley

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 27.—Rogers Hornsby, new Brave second baseman and captain, has two burning ambitions in his husky chest this year. He wants to lead the National League in batting once more, and he wants to help haul the Braves up into the first division, where they will have a chance for a little extra money.

Nick Flatley

Rogers is a real baseball bug. He talks and thinks of nothing else every day, every week. He will sit by the hour and chatter about world series plays or pitchers or any old thing. His interest in the game is one of the reasons of his greatness.

Hornsby loves to hit the baseball, and he isn't at all worried because he has not been clipping off homers and things this spring. The big boy believes he is a slow starter and is sure that the punch will return with the opening of the season.

"I never could hit in the spring," he admits, although I try just as hard as I know how. Somehow I don't just time the swing right, just pop up flies. That has happened so often that I'm used to it and don't care. I feel that with the real games I'll be in there getting my share of the blows.

"I would like to lead the league in hitting this year. I like all the associations with this Boston club and know that the Boston fans would get as much kick out of that as I would. I feel a good year coming on and I know that I'm with a hustling ball club. The Braves have the real spirit, are a gang that will win many a tough ball game.

"If our club gets any kind of pitching watch out. It has a chance to crash up near the top, and once a team is in that kind of a spot there's always a hope for the pennant. Sudden winning streaks by unconsidered ball clubs have won races many a time.

"This is likely to be a surprising season in our league. So many clubs have swapped players and shifted lineups that there's no telling just what will happen. I think that the Braves have strengthened up more than any club in the league. I leave myself out in that consideration, too.

"I haven't been hitting a lick, and the team has been winning games. It seems to be a winning combination, and that opinion has also been gathered by most of the players I have met on other teams this spring. Boston has deserved a ball club for years, and I hope I can have my best season to help the city get back where it belongs in the old game."

HORNSBY'S HITTING STRENGTH WOULD HAVE TURNED AROUND HALF OF THE FORTY GAMES THE TRIBE LOST BY ONE RUN IN '27

Rogers relates the National League pitchers think of baseball about 12 hours each day.

THAT other large hitter, Mister George Herman Ruth, also has visions of going wild once more with the bludgeon. He's in better shape than ever he boasted at this stage of the game, and is beginning to get the feel of the ball, although his homers haven't been bouncing off the bat in true Ruthian form yet.

"Sure I like to knock homers," he told your correspondent in reply to a question. "I'd rather set up a new record at that than lead the league hitting by 50 points. I get a real thrill when I take hold of one right, and so does the gang.

"The big salary goes with the home run. So why shouldn't I want to slap 'em out. This should be a good year for batters, with the new idea of keeping the game speeded up. That won't let the pitchers stall and rest when they start to wobble.

"The Yanks look like champs again to me, and I hope 65 home runs of mine will help to chase them home in front of the gang. Hug has a great ball club, and it should be stronger than it was last year."

RUTH MADE $20,000 IN EXHIBITION GAMES AFTER THE SERIES LAST FALL. THAT'S ONE REASON WHY HE WANTS A NEW RECORD.

The rookies now are drifting back, as they do every spring. They have six weeks' vacation and they never show a thing.

BASEBALL is the most optimistic of all games. We have talked with seven large league managers down in Florida and each and every one predicts and expects a great year for his club. Connie Mack pleks his Athletics will win the pennant. Bill Carrigan can see an improved Red Sox team. Eat Wilbert Robinson is sure that the Dodgers will get up into the first division, while Bert Shotton is convinced his Phils can scramble away from the cellar. And so it goes throughout the whole list. Spring optimism carries the boys well along into the bad seasons, and it's justified frequently enough to keep the dreamers dreaming year after year.

Sande in Training for Comeback

New York, March 27 (AP)—Tackey Earl Sande, recently reinstated in good standing on the turf, is now galloping horses at Belmont Park in preparation for his return to the saddle. He was scheduled to report at Joseph E. Widener's stable in Kentucky, but changed his plans to remain here at Widener's request, he here will join a few days.

Frank Coulter, who is to be William R. Coe, is getting himself ready on the metropolitan tracks, having altered plans which would have sent him into an extensive riding campaign in Tennessee.

MARULLO WINS HONOR FROM OLD MIKE M'TIGUE

New York, March 27 (INS)—The end of the finite trail loomed today for Mike M'Tigue, light heavyweight champion of the world. The gallant Irishman, now nearly 40 years old, was outpointed by Tommy Marullo of New Orleans in a 10-round bout here last night. Although many maintained that the bould Michael was entitled to a draw, his blows were sadly lacking in power.

SUGGS HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Nearly Kayoed in 8th Round as Sammy Fuller Outfights Him in Title Bout

By JACK CONWAY

SAMMY FULLER is still firmly entrenched as New England featherweight champion as a result of his decisive victory over Chick Suggs in their 10-round battle at a Suffolk A. A. show at the Arena. Fuller did everything to Suggs but knock him out.

Fuller, hailed as the American Pancho Villa, almost stopped the veteran Suggs in the eighth round.

Jack Conway

Sammy's terrific body punches, mixed up with a occasional left hook to the head, had slowed Suggs down to a walk.

The little New Bedford lad went into the ring in fine shape and had the best of it from the start. Suggs acted dumb and carried a package of gumption like a veteran. He went down for the count of nine.

started to topple Fuller cracked a short left hook on the chin.

Suggs reeled back against the ropes, then fell to the canvas. He wisely took the benefit of the count of nine.

Suggs' legs were unsteady when he got up, while his eyes were glassy. Fuller dashed to his quarters and zipped crushing blows to the body. Once more Suggs looked up, and it looked as though Fuller was going to pass out of the picture. The going sounded and Fuller's best chance of scoring a knockout was gone. If Fuller had the punch with his knockdown wallop at the end, he would probably have won on a bout by a knock-out.

In the ninth frame, Fuller went at Suggs. The latter stalled as much as possible, finally once more Fuller, by using Sammy's driving body punch, will look to the low fouls to get the best of the veteran. Suggs acted foolish in the second round, but came back with a rush in the third, only to be weakened from then on.

In the fourth round Fuller kept a steady attack on Suggs' body. During the fifth round Fuller kept up the attack on both body and head. Suggs was weakening, but was unable to land a solid punch. The sixth round was a big one for Fuller, who carried on.

FROM the very start of the bout it was almost a certainty that the youthful Fuller would batter Suggs into submission. Sammy started off with a rush and in the opening round he rolled a left hook to the New Bedford warrior's jaw. From the way he did it

Fuller made no big play for Suggs stomach. His ripping blows to the mid-section slowed Chick down to a walk.

Fuller weighed in at 125 pounds, while Suggs was 126. Both Fuller was strong at the weigh.

SOX SHOW SIGNS OF HITTING

Hit Ball Hard Against Giants, Although Fielders Snared Raps by Fine Work

By JOE CASHMAN

Augusta, March 27—Unable to win a game in three starts against the New York Giants, the Red Sox will try again this afternoon.

And again tomorrow, a fifth contest between the two clubs having been arranged.

On paper, the New Yorkers appear to have had easier going in the three games, which they won 7 to 1, than they did in the first two contests, which were lucky to end up on the right side of the score. Although the box scores were actually more impressive in the defeat than in the other three games, the Sox batsmen showed a decided improvement over their previous performances, and if the pitching staff can keep up the good work of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Giants will have their troubles in the first two games especially when Jesse Haines, Herman Meyer, Sherrod Smith and Hi Bell, the most likely choices to start for the Cards, are considered.

Martha Lee Radio Chat as Broadcast From Station WLOE

Martha Lee

IS THERE any pleasanter picture than that of a group of congenial friends gathered around a Sunday night supper table, especially if that table can be made to look like a picture before an open fire?

The supper can be of the simplest — must be, indeed, if it is served at any distance from the fountain head of the food supply — the pantry. And a tea wagon is a useful piece of furniture for this type of meal, or a firm card table may be used, spread with a dainty cloth.

It is best to choose sandwiches or salad rather than a hot dish, tea, coffee or cocoa as the beverage is even preferable to drink. The following menu has been served at my fireside to groups of from four to six in larger groups could be served quite as easily)

Chicken Salad Sandwiches
Hot Baking Powder Biscuits

Home-made Jelly or Jam
Peach Pecan Tarts in Cream Cake

CHEESE CHAMPIGNON SALAD
1 lb. cream cheese, ¼ green pepper, 1 small onion, ½ pimento, 2 tomatoes, 2 apples, 2 tbsp. vinegar, 2 tbsp. salad oil, ¼ c. mayonnaise dressing, salt and pepper to taste.

Remove the skin from the tomatoes by dipping them in boiling water and then in cold water. Cut the tomatoes, apples, onion, pepper and pimento into small pieces. Add the salad oil, vinegar and salt. Arrange the cheese on lettuce leaves and pour the dressing over it. Garnish with the pimento. This dressing is also delicious for fruit salad.

If very thick, decrease [illegible] minutes, turn out at once, [illegible] or in a very rich dessert, is delicious garnished with whipped cream.

BAKING POWDER BISCUITS — 2 c. flour, 4 tsp. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. [illegible] 1 egg, ¾ c. [illegible] or enough to make soft dough. Sift [illegible] powder and salt [illegible] Work rapidly, as [illegible] Roll out [illegible] Cut with floured biscuit cutter. Precautions in Use of Artificial Sun

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D., Former President of the American Medical Association.

IT is a great misfortune, but seemingly inevitable, that every real advance in science is attended with abuse growing out of misapplication. In this way every new truth has to run the gamut from unjust censure to unwarranted praise. In other words, a truth becomes finally established only when its limitations and consequent relations are recognized and defined. Thus it seems absurd that some physicians seem to claim that artificial sunlight will cure every disease known, others sneer at it as a fraud. The truth is that it is a very valuable invention, with certain properties that no other healing method possesses, but it also has its limitations. It is generally at its best when used with proper medicine.

It provides one of the best methods of curing rickets, though it is not superior to cod liver oil. It is an invaluable tonic for pregnant and nursing mothers, and if a mother's milk shows signs of failing, a course of ultra-violet light will often restore the flow. It builds up infants suffering from malnutrition, and calms restless, screaming children who sleep badly, and who not react to dieting; they become quieter, digest their food better and begin to gain in weight.

Another type of child that benefits from light baths is the "hypotonic" or under toned child. Without showing any evidence of organic disease, the hypotonic child is thin, pale and tired, restless and listless, with flabby, weak muscles. Light, by itself, however, may fail if the child is living in unsuitable conditions and is receiving the wrong food. The class of children that, without being actually mentally defective, are mentally backward, gain tremendously in intelligence and quickness from ultra-violet light.

Both for children and adults there is no tonic so good in the debility which follows operations and long illnesses. Muscles paralyzed by poliomyelitis (infantile paralysis) benefit greatly from light baths, and carefully-graduated light treatment has proved especially useful for patients with asthma, particularly if there is associated bronchitis. Anaemic persons are also the better for a course of ultra-violet light.

Now that so many lay people are installing ultra-violet lamps in their own homes, H. M. Oddy in the Proceedings of the Royal Society of Medicine assures us that it is well for everyone to know a few of the dangers inseparable from their use.

Apart from breakages and electric shock, an over-exposure may result in a severe burn, which causes as much pain and illness as a second-degree heat burn. Too frequent exposures and too long ones result in irritability and disturbed sleep, persistent loss of weight or failure to gain weight, and digestive disturbance and loss of appetite.

"I USED TO BE ILL A GREAT DEAL"

Then ALL-BRAN brought new health

Mrs. Richardson wrote a free and voluntary tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN after she had amply proved its value in relieving constipation and promoting health.

May 8, 1927

"I used to be ill a great deal. Through the winter I always had endless colds and nights and was forever taking physickers. Now I almost never have a cold. I haven't taken medicine or needed any for years, and I have better health than I ever had in my life. This is not just a fad with me. I have been eating ALL-BRAN for about four years."—Mrs. M. G. Richardson, 7238 Eighteenth Ave. N. E., Seattle, Wash.

Constipation causes dozens of troubles. Headaches, sleeplessness, aching backs, dizziness, sallow necks—these are only a few of the outward signs. But Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings prompt, natural relief. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100 per cent bran. A healthful cereal. Delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sprinkle into soups. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Now! Give All Your Furniture that New Waxed Look!

The attractiveness of present-day furniture lies in the beauty of its soft, subdued finish. Unfortunately, many housewives rob their furniture of its charm by using the same polish they used on old-fashioned shiny furniture.

The rare beauty of grand pianos and fine furniture is made possible by a wax finish. To preserve this, you should use the same wax polish that is used by the furniture factories themselves.

Old English Liquid Wax is the genuine Old English Wax in liquid form—made especially for easy use on fine furniture and woodwork. Simply dampen a cloth with it, and go lightly over the surface. After a few minutes rub to a polish with a dry soft cloth.

The result is a dry, wax finish that will not collect lint or dust and can be rubbed up for weeks afterward. In addition the wax protects the furniture from scratches and finger marks—it is also the wear on the wax, not on the wood.

On Self-Discipline

By L. LAMAR MATTHEWS.

"WHEN I was a child," said an elderly woman, "I was really afraid of my mother. She could see as near looking a hole through you as anybody I ever saw. Once or twice in my life I had the temerity to ask her why I had to do a certain thing, or why I was refused [illegible] else. The reason she gave was the stern, crisp sentence: 'Because I said so!'

"That seemed a very inadequate reason to me then, and I [illegible] yet.

"But now I am [illegible] that my mother was right. [illegible] boys and girls, and we have a more helpful relationship [illegible] I [illegible] parents [illegible] possible as a [illegible] present to exist in, but that is not an ideal relation.

Sometimes mothers and fathers wonder how much obedience they should demand of their children. They also wonder just how they are going to get it after they have demanded it. When children obey only because they are afraid to disobey, it usually go straight back to their own particular little sin, as soon as their elders are at a safe distance.

Obedience, in itself, does not build character. There must be some intelligent desire on the part of the child to fall in with what his parent wants done.

Complete domination of the child will naturally kill his spirit or else turn him into a surly, deceitful young person. Absolute freedom to do as he pleases is equally harmful and makes him unruly and thoughtless of everybody else. A sensible middle ground is by no means impossible.

A mother or father who is reasonable and who is considerate and fair can inspire children to obey certain rules regulations of conduct. Whether or not the eye of authority is upon them.

Self-discipline is the safest, and the best discipline in the world. [illegible] training means developing [illegible] keeping in your child.

And he proceeded to demonstrate the proper method of consuming liquid food.

Then the mother returned to the table.

"This is the way I drink milk, mother," Fred boasted, and imitated his father. "I'm a big boy now."

Father made Fred want to do the right thing. And so he taught a lesson in two minutes that all mother's fussing and slapping had failed to teach.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE D'ALROY.

WHY do so many men DANCE the way they do? Don't they EVER learn? After all, it is much easier for a man to earn a reputation as a wonderful DANCER than it is for a woman, because he has only to pick out a FEW steps and make up his mind about them, and do them DEFINITELY. But a woman has to know ALL the things every man is LIABLE to do, and do them as soon as HE does them—with him, in fact. And considering the queer capers some men cut on a dance floor this sometimes amounts to positive GENIUS.

On the other hand, some men dance DIVINELY. . . . But if a man's footwork on the dance floor is an INDEX to his mentality, then he ought some men must have simply NOTHING on their minds at all! For some men's dancing is as EMPTY as the conversation of some women. While other men . . .

Of course, some men dance for FUN. This is OBVIOUS. And some men dance because their WIVES make them. This is usually fairly obvious, too. Especially if a man has been WEAK enough to let his wife TEACH him. This social error is made by CRAMP h a style for ever, and it HE does not suffer later, his PARTNERS certainly will. A man who has been BULLIED into step by one women is apt to forget that he is expected to take the LEAD with others. And the man who CANNOT lead a woman on the dance floor all eventually drive he — CRAZY.

Nothing is more exasperating than a man who does NOT KNOW what he is doing when he is dancing. Unless it is a man who is not sure when he is making LOVE. Both make a woman first NERVOUS, then vexed, then irritable, and finally downright mad! A man who wants to dance well should PAY well for good lessons. Then he will be treated with RESPECT. And who knows, maybe then he might go home and teach the WIFE something. And think what FUN that would be!

"Jerry" by ELENORE MEHERIN AUTHOR of "CHICKIE"

A Story of Mad Moonlight Kisses and a Wonderful Young Girl

CHAPTER 49.

MARY EUNICE PENNINGS enveloped in chiffons of lavender and jade, invited Jerry to share an eleven-thirty breakfast. Mary was draped enchantingly on a Louis Sixteenth chaise lounge, her arms clasped behind her head, her legs, which were bare, doubled back in little-girl fashion, half under her. Jerry felt it a pity so alluring a pose could be wasted.

"Listen, Jer," said Mary Eunice. "I'd like to room done all in black—perhaps a dash of orange, but something very startling and Arabian. I'm sick of rose and blue. I want something strong and eccentric, more like myself than these dampening colors. I think a black bed-room would give a great touch of mystery. I think it's quite what I want."

Jerry concealed a grin: "Purple of a rich but mellow shade would be just as striking and much more becoming to your complexion. The black might to furnish a subtle background."

"Think how like a funeral black in a bedroom would be!"

He was helpful in my bedroom," said Mary, with wicked tones. "But you know it's better in mine and I'm going to have it done over from the attic to the second basement. I wish you'd make me a sketch of each room as you think it should be—then we'll go over them together.

"I want the house comfortable. So that a man would like it."

Jerry very faintly asked her as knows. She thought quickly: "With a grand little jaunt on me if I decorate a house for Saxon and her."

He was gone three and a half weeks and on the homeward trip now.

There were letters that puzzled and thrilled Jerry. Letters like those he sent from Paris—full of his burning enthusiasm. He sent inspired sketches of a general scheme and asked her to write back what she thought of them.

She answered sedately, urging him to greater, more flaming efforts. She never drenched a hint of the information Sylvia had given. For she knew instinctively that a thing like this written in cold black and white to one was doubly poisonous. It would only make him dirty-feminous.

And it would be just like him not to concentrate on. It would further only shame him to know that Mary Eunice paying of the bill. Indeed such a bargain they had between them.

Let him get all he could from the trip. The money was spent, anyway. He owed it him enough to pay for his expense. When he returned she would set him at ease about it. Not for worlds involving herself with ANYONE on the money score.

In this at least, she would back Mary Eunice.

Whenever they met—and this was frequently—a feeling of cornfed domination Jerry. She would think: "I'm better looking than you." I've more head, and God help us if I haven't a better soul! It is inconceivable that he should choose you to me. And I'm out to see that he DOESN'T. I'm out to beat you."

She took a defiant joy in this contest. It made her arrogant. She felt sometimes as though she were made of fire, and other times, reckless and triumphant as though she were made of wine.

Now, sitting here sipping coffee from Mary's fine French china, she said impishly, "Well, different men like different things. What type of man, Mary, do you seek to please?"

Mary smiled dreamily, as one who has her choice of the earth's heroes. "The real kind, Jerry—you and Saxon are close friends, aren't you? We've known each other for years."

"You were engaged for years, weren't you?" It was quite general gossip—so I've heard. The breaking of an engagement I should imagine worse than the severing of a marriage."

"Why?"

"After marriage comes disillusion. After disillusion the parting is welcome."

"But even today, few people are engaged long enough and intimate enough to be thoroughly disillusioned. I imagine that for the rest there would always remain a residue of hope."

Mary's widowed blue eyes for a fleeting moment searched Jerry's.

"Jerry laughed at her. "That's the idiotic way of imagining it, Mary. The girl on the screen and in books is always pictured as Dorothy Jordan or Wearing Eline. I suppose you figured it all wise. She had never loved, so to the film she could turn herself out with unspoiled love."

"How's that for telling the wind's way?" one thought with a tang of exultation.

"I suppose it is an old fashioned viewpoint. But I can't feature being friends with a man I once loved. I don't see how either one can enjoy or to make such a relation. Yet you and Saxon seem to enjoy each other's company very much. He writes to you, doesn't he?"

"Ah! Is it?"

A flush across the clear, satin skin.

Jerry grinned in her coffee-cup: "Didn't like that, ole dear, did you? Puts us on a level! Better watch your step, or I'll bob myself out of this excellent job."

But she went on casually: "I wonder if he has much chance of winning that prize?"

"Why, of course. I'm confident he's made one terribly good."

"Did you? How his sketches that he sent from Paris?"

"Don't be silly. He's not made any sketches yet. He's only been on a couple of trips."

"He'll have a great advantage over the men who couldn't take the trip. He'll be able to suit his ideas to the very spirit of the age."

"But it costs quite a bit—a trip like that."

"No whole competition will be expensive. But I don't think Saxon is going to worry over the money end of it."

"I think he WILL worry over that," said Jerry.

Mary closed her eyes over myself. "Saxon spoiled me terribly. He made presents to me and to mother."

Jerry came to the conclusion that Mary was a perfect fool. Saxon would never be interested in her. Jerry's self-assurance was just for the moment. Jerry what I will be coming to him."

She was quite sure of her own power. If Saxon could only be left alone with Mary for a few days he would be caught in the treacherous web of her beauty. Jerry's self-assurance was just for the moment. Jerry what I will be coming to him."

She was quite sure of her own power. If Saxon could only be left alone with Mary for a few days he would be caught in the treacherous web of her beauty. Jerry's self-assurance was just for the moment. Jerry what I will be coming to him."

Jerry waited.

"He's in this too deep now" she thought excitedly. "He won't stop at the end to get the money from her. The money's of no consequence."

He opened the door. The tan, flighting face was lean and sharply drawn with the line of restraint that thrilled her.

He saw Jerry. A quick grin lit his face. "Been waiting to see you. Been wanting to get up to the shop. But I've had to get going. Take a scallop short. I'm afraid to lose a minute," said he, bouncing his hair swiftly. "How are you?"

He used slang and intent and business, so Jerry said to her.

Pyramid Patterns are often used as decorations for new spring frocks. A pair of brown artificial cotton pumps are appliqued to certain light tinted polkadots of a shantung brown kidskin. The slender spike heel is also of the kid.

The silk tie, or straw hats have a gay ribbon bands and flowers that are bordered or draped with dotted or figured crepe de Chine or chiffon to match the Dorothy Perkins's frocks are still the favorite sports scarfs.

Investing Vests with Importance, many of the new three-piece frocks are worn with smart little vests that are made with capped shoulders to replace sleeves. The notched collar is most popular with both the single and double breasted waistcoats, which are trimmed in ivory, crystal or metal buttons.

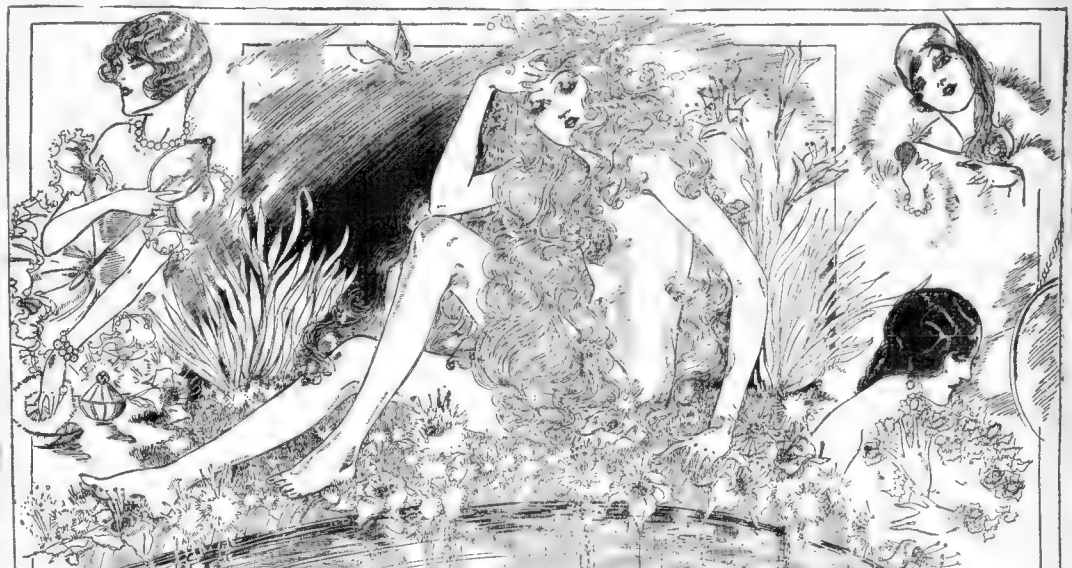
Eve's Mirror and Others

From Mother Eve to Miss 1928, Vanity Always Finds a Way

DRAWN BY Dorothy Flack



I WONDER what Mother Eve's feelings were when first she gazed at her mirrored reflection in the crystal depths of some woodland pool in the Garden of Eden? Was she frightened, do you think, or with her feminine intuition did she instinctively realize that here was the key to the door of Father Adam's heart?

She probably did, for ever since her time there have been mirrors in which woman could behold her lovely self and make herself lovely for the delight and adoration of all beholders.

If mirrors could only talk—what tales they could tell of tears and fears; of whispered confidence and heart-broken sobs; of gay smiles and blushing admissions! For, you know, the mirror is Dan Cupid's staunch ally and I sometimes strongly suspect that he it was who first whispered the secret to Mother Eve, and she has handed it down through the ages to all her daughters. Wonder what we'd do without them?

Correct Manners

Choosing the Ring

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

I have not as yet seen in your column a question that is similar to mine.

I—I will soon be engaged and I would like to know when or not it is proper for me to be with me mounting for my diamond. Will you please tell me the correct thing to do in this instance? My fiancé wants me to be pleased with the ring, and asks that I make my own choice.

—I would advise you to get some of your friends to help you choose the ring for you. Of course, you will want to get one that you like, but you should also consider the setting for the stone, so that it may be in keeping with your personality. After all that engagement ring is worn for a long time, and in most cases to be worn for life, and it is an important item that the world to have pleasant associations for dream engagement.

Therefore it is my opinion that for the young man to have a choice of several photographs of them together they can discuss over and decide on the one they like. If you like the jewelry in some new design. If they like to have special design made, the young man can go to the jeweler and get some idea of what he thinks the young lady would like, and if it is not within the means of the young man to get and have the jeweler, or his assistant, take several of these to the young lady's house for her to choose from.

2—Any becoming light shade is appropriate for your wedding dress. If you are not planning to wear the conventional white. A very good "stunt" is to consider the shades of the flowers in a florist's window or in a garden, and determine from them the color scheme for your wedding, and observe how these shades blend with the other shades that you are going to use in your attendants' dresses and in the decorations.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

SOMETIMES it takes nearly all the honeymoon to cure a bridegroom of the headache and the pessimism created by a fashionable wedding.

Nothing, outside of the Twentieth Century Limited, covers more ground in a few hours, than a woman's imagination.

Give your husband a spring tonic if you must; but don't be surprised if it makes him forget his bald spot, his rheumatism and his wedding vows. Many a woman who has plied her husband with iron and quinine to pep him UP, has had to wait all summer for him to RUN DOWN.

When that brain-to-brain wireless, by which we can read each other's thoughts, is perfected, many a woman who fancies her husband is working out some mighty business problem will be shocked to discover that he is merely trying to think of some alibi for getting out of the house.

This is the wanderlust season, when every mortal one of us has moments in which he longs to buy a ticket for Nowhere, hop off at an unknown station, and walk—to the end of the rainbow!

When a woman speaks wistfully of the time when she was "young and foolish" you may know that she is getting along toward the decrepit age of twenty-five. After forty, no woman ever begins a sentence with, "When I was a girl—"

The most dangerous woman in the average man's life is not the hard-hearted gold-digger who may "get him," but the soft-hearted coddler who has GOT him. Nothing in this world should be coddled, except an egg—and that should be a perfectly GOOD egg!

"She's a Septic!"

Many women want to be, deserve to be, one could be far more popular than is their lot. Doctors know why. So do some. They call such cases septics.

To remedy obnoxious body odors and bad breath, you must recognize their cause. The trouble is deep-seated. Frankly in the colon. Semi-constipation makes millions of systems septic. There may be a daily movement, but all the waste is not eliminated. Some of it remains poisons the blood, and permeates the perspiration. It taints the breath. Nature is signaling her need of a little calcium.

Calcium works wonders in one's appearance, too. With the inner system sweet and clean, the complexion clears most marvelously. Eyes brighten. Teeth whiten. The tongue is no longer coated, even on arising. And you never need take another harsh cathartic.

Perhaps you are septic, and don't know it. Try a tiny bit of calcium, and see! It may make all the difference in the world. Leave harsh, habit-forming cathartics alone. You never need them if you take an occasional calcium tablet.

A five-day test will prove to you very conclusively if a system's need for calcium, and the benefit from these little wafers. Your druggist has them for 10c. Or the family size, 60c. Start this test today.

DON'T LIVE IN PAST

By LUCY LOWELL

HE is an octogenarian, a fine old fellow, vigorous of body and mind and still filled with the joy of living.

There is only one thing which stands in the way of complete happiness for him—his burning resentment that the world has gone to the dogs as it has.

"In my day," says he, "things were run differently. There was not this and that and the other thing. Times were better then. Ah, yes, nothing like the old days. We were a harder race and what we did amounted to something."

Poor old, splendid old fellow with his eyes turned backward! He cannot become be will not see that all the good the past had results with us and that it is upon this the true life and hope and ambition and achievement of the race are built.

He has forgotten that there were things not so splendid in his day —but then others have forgotten, too, for it is the way of the mind to hold fast only that which is good, letting the rest go. And some time what is undesirable in our own age will be dropped in exactly the same manner and what is high and fine will be retained for the generation which comes after us to build upon.

"Those roses under my pillow," wrote Emerson, "make no reference to former roses or to better ones; they are for what they are, they exist with God today. There is no time to them. There is simply the rose, it is perfect in every moment of its existence . . .

"But man postpones or remembers, he does not live in the present but with retrospective eye laments the past, or heedless of the riches that surround him, stands on tiptoe to foresee the future. He cannot be happy and strong until he, too, lives with Nature in the present above time."

Too Much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any druggist.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

Stock Ticker Is Rushing Ahead Faster Than Trade

By B. C. FORBES

New York, March 27—The stock ticker is moving faster than business. The stock market and business have this much in common, however: They show pronounced up and down swings. Just as some stocks have made notable gains, so have a few lines of business. And just as many stocks are failing to make headway, so are various lines of business.

B. C. Forbes

While it can be said that average quotations on the New York Stock Exchange have broken all records, the same cannot be said of current business.

How long this tremendous contradictory movements will continue cannot be foretold. But it isn't reasonable that Wall Street can long maintain its breakneck speculative pace.

Instead of showing any abatement last week, speculation became more furious than ever before. The week's turnover reached unparalleled totals. Fifty representative stocks, embracing an equal number of industrial and railway issues, broke through the October's record peak in no uncertain fashion.

'A handful of stocks continues to attract major attention. In them, violent swings up and down are the most daily occurrences. So far, the bulls have been able always, however, to rally the bears.

But it must not be assumed that speculation is confined to a few stocks. Trading has broadened very substantially, suggesting that the public have been drawn into the orgy by the spectacle of plying prices.

Convincing testimony that stock speculation has become widespread comes from other cities. Stock dealing in Chicago, in San Francisco, in Los Angeles, in Detroit and other centers is of unprecedented volume.

Also, it is significant that, notwithstanding the rapid gain in business in industry and trade, bank clearings are running far ahead of last year, even after allowance is made for the inflation in New York. Stock transactions here, for example, crossed 4,000,000 shares one day last week, a new maximum.

Another indication of the abnormal speculative activity in the Academy in New York Stock Exchange seats is $350,000, three times the price of a few years ago.

The gamblers are paying scant attention to activities off the floor of the exchange. Money rates are occasionally discussed, but equal scorn in brokers' boards is dandled with the comment that "it is less than we expected." The removal of gold exports, in volume sufficient to raise the outflow above the $500,000,000 mark since last fall, is ignored.

The boosting of fresh warning signals by the Federal Reserve authorities, in the form of steps to discourage excessive expanded speculative borrowing, is also treated lightly by Wall Street in its present mood.

"Nothing succeeds like success." Professional operators know that nothing succeeds the rising quotations in inciting speculative fervor.

And so the merry ongoings continue day after day.

* * *

The week brought encouragement for our agricultural population. Wheat enjoyed a sharp rally and did better, and both now are brightening far higher returns than a year ago. Cotton, on an estimated final crop of 12,950,472 bales, touched a new top for the year and finished the week fully five cents per pound above its price of 12 months ago. Hides are nearly 19 cents higher than a year ago. Beef is up nearly 10 per cent, but pork is lower.

So far as our agricultural prospects are encouraging.

Reports from the steel industry are cheerful. Automobile output production has been vigorously speeded up, and a very optimistic statement to Chairman Pierre S. du Pont shows Motors finance committee gave motor stocks a new fillip toward the end of the week. The shoe industry is doing better. So is silk. Lumber reports are a little more satisfactory. Commercial failures are slightly fewer.

On the other hand, complaints are still unpleasantly numerous in numbers of industries and from a good many merchants. The latest curbing figures are under those of a year ago.

Praiseworthy efforts are being exerted by numbers of cities to provide immediate work for the unemployed. The unemployment problem, which has represented the most unfavorable phase of our otherwise prosperous situation, should be modified very rapidly now that spring is here. Unless, however, industry and business as a whole show more improvement than is yet being experienced, the problem will not entirely disappear. It is now calling for the most serious attention of America's master minds.

* * *

The financial East has not relished the recent political exposures. The thought is that the public will receive more notice if and when a relapse comes in the stock market.

AMERICAN WOOL IS RELIANCE OF MILLS

Salt Lake City, March 27—Matt Scott of Boston, president of the National Wool Exchange, recently in Salt Lake, said the world's 1927 heavy consumption of wool products has not been purchased outside this country, and United States buyers have taken up the wool produced in their own nation.

Mr. Scott said this would be no hardship on the manufacturers, as they can buy American wools cheaper than foreign. They have used practically every pound of 1927 grown wool, and will need every pound of the country's clip to keep their mills running.

BRITISH CELANESE TO STAY OUT OF MERGER

Dr. Henri Dreyfus, president of British Celanese, Ltd., rejected offers made by Courtaulds Glanzstoff groups to include British Celanese in large rayon combination. It is stated several approaches had been made recently, but Dr. Dreyfus has declined, as Celanese desired to remain independent. Some of the trade would attain greater prosperity by remaining outside the merger.

Fancifully was reactionary, selling down 12¾ to 258¾.

GOOD TIME TO BUILD IN BOSTON

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor
First Assistant Postmaster General John H. Bartlett tells me: "The Postmaster General and Secretary of the Treasury, on recommendation of a special committee of the two departments, of which I am a member, recommended to the budget an appropriation for a new postoffice in Boston under the general program, which authorizes $260,000,000 to be thus expended in the country. This recommendation for Boston low in the hands of the budget is for a new building on the old site, to cost $5,-000,000 and an immediate appropriation of the said amount of $300,000 to pay the bills until Congress comes in again next December.

GENERAL BARTLETT

"This recommendation includes the right to make a contract for $5,000,-000 and the $300,000 is authority to spend so much on that contract before an additional amount is asked of Congress. This $300,000, to be expended this autumn, would be used to start December will be expended in demolishing the present building and starting foundations, etc. There is no doubt that the budget will send this to Congress and Congress will pass it. It has become a recognized part of the program.

"One thought in this building program, which I think is important, is in mind now, is to help absorb any surplus labor which there may be in the country. Boston, I believe, looks like a good time for the Government to build, concludes Gen. Bartlett.

Another New Hampshire company seems to be "suffering" from the same happy malady revealed by us following the recent visit to the Granite State, details of which were reprinted with due credit by the official publication of the New England Council last week. It is another Boston client, the Newmarket Mfg. Co., is "running day and night" currently and some of the departments are running overtime."

Great Britain is having so many new investment trusts that, according to an Associated Press dispatch, it is difficult to find new names for them. No such trouble has been encountered in New England. Services of the gentleman who names the Pullman cars will perhaps be in demand later on.

Col. Leonard Ayres' latest "selective prosperity" letter bears a paragraph significant for recent improvement of fact regarding employment figures. This was to the effect that they are beginning to "discount." Colonel Ayres says unemployment is estimated at from 1,600,000 to 4,000,000. The difference between a million and four millions is quite enough to cover the difference between dull times and a boom.

The stock market hasn't been arguing over the difference between dullness. Secretary of Labor Davis in his report to Senate says 1,371,029 are unemployed.

Salisbury pl., whose name is reminiscent of the old Salisbury Precinct Twice and the British statesman and financier, Lord Ashburton and Baring, whose combined family boundaries between the United States and Canada, comes into additional prominence during the next few weeks. Stockholders of the Boston & Maine gather on Ashburton pl. to vote on the 45-to-1 split.

* * *

Secretary A. S. Nicholas of Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper Co. gives us notice of the annual meeting of the stockholders of that great producer to be held April 11 at 12 Ashburton pl. They tell us "profit-sharing dividends in 1928 makes good," but it is evident Calumet & Hecla is numbered among the blessed.

* * *

Montreal Mining Exchange members are entertaining visitors in Boston, says: "One Michigan copper, known as the Calumet & Hecla, has paid enormous dividends in recent years—in fact is still paying them—and when I explain that these dividends are many times the original 500 per cent on the original investment, you must acknowledge that this was indeed a rare opportunity."

* * *

For those who can't "place" it, we might say Ashburton pl. is a ring in the glow of the "silk-stocking dome" on Beacon Hill. It is the only "place" in the world that can boast of being the meeting "places" of two great corporations.

BOSTON RADIO AMERICAN

FRED TOVE, RADIO EDITOR — "VOICING THE GREAT PRINCIPLES OF DEMOCRACY OF THE AIR" — STATION WLOE

RADIO DIALOG

Melodies of the Northland which will be presented tonight from WBET at 7:45 will be interpreted by two well known and talented Swedish musicians. Herbert C. Otterberg, baritone soloist, is the director of music and soloist at the First Swedish Lutheran Church of Brockton. He is also director of the newly formed Vega male chorus of thirty Swedish-American male voices. Edith G. Leidman is a concert pianist already known to both Swedish and American audiences. Miss Leidman is the organist of the First Swedish Lutheran Church of Boston.

SONG of the Clocks, a composition depicting the swift passing of time, is one of the many interesting selections to be heard in the Listerine Hour, to be broadcast by the Columbia Broadcasting System through WNAC tonight at 10 o'clock. Song of the Clocks is by Chanson Cottage, an English composer. It will be played on this occasion by the symphony orchestra which will also render Primi's "Adoree," Langley's "Wanderlust," and Schuett's "Nordland Idylle."

By changing their broadcasting period so that they will be on the air from 8:30 to 9:00 p. m. Eastern Standard time every Tuesday evening, the Selbering Singers expect to add more than a million listeners to their already large audience tonight. Heretofore the Selbering Singers have been broadcasting from 8:30 to 8:30. The additional listeners-in will be Western states. While 8:30 is not appreciably better than 8:00 p. m. in the East, the half hour makes a considerable difference in the two time zones to the West, where one and two hours must be deducted from eastern standard time. When it is 8:30 in New York it is 6:30 in Denver.

THE WNAC players, who have been featuring drama on the radio for many weeks, will turn to comedy this evening, their offering being "Between the Acts," which is well filled with humorous lines and situations.

The Travelers show themselves true cosmopolites in the excursion which they will make this evening into the music of foreign lands. Whether in the medium of a fervid and exotic habanera or a melancholy Russian elegy, this band of musicians is equally at home. Ample range is given the Travelers in the broadcast tonight from WEEI-WJZ. They will be on the air at 9:00 in the tenth concert of a series presented by courtesy of the Traveler Shoe Company.

Sascha Fidelman, violinist, will play Drigo's "Valse Bluette" during the Stromberg-Carlson Hour which will be broadcast through WEEI at 8 o'clock this evening.

THE fifth in the new series of "Soconyland Sketches" to be presented this evening will strike a different note in Mark Sullivan's legendary tales of New England when the players present "The Cherry Valley Massacre." It will be recalled that Cherry Valley was the scene of a massacre during the Revolutionary War. The play concludes with the triumphal march of the riders as they set out for Ft. Niagara.

WILL DISCUSS HOSPITAL WORK

The Central Hospital of Somerville will conduct an open meeting tonight to discuss various phases of progress and activity. Several prominent persons in the community will address the gathering. Among the speakers will be the following:

Dr. Daniel F. Mahoney of the Carney Hospital, Dr. Thomas J. Scanlan, St. Elizabeth's Hospital; Fiorino Gilbert, principal Mission Church High School; Walter Smith, exalted ruler Somerville Lodge of Elks; Miss Marie McDonald, New England welfare officer, American Legion; Miss E. Etta Wallace, Middlesex welfare officer, American Legion; John F. Smith, grand knight Mt. Benedict Council, Somerville; Alderman Robert Houlihy, Dr. Francis J. Fitzpatrick, John J. Murphy and John W. English.

The hospital was recently organized to meet the requirements of the American College of Surgeons, and with the leading staff of physicians: Doctors Edward J. Dailey, Frank B. Bresnihan, Charles F. McCaffrey, Leo T. Myles, Barnett C. Titelbaum, William F. Dewire, Lawrence Powers, Joseph H. Hennessey, Frank J. Fitzpatrick, Henry J. Cabeceiras, Henry V. Leary, Herrin Dunn, Robert E. Driscoll, P. A. O'Sullivan, A. J. Villone, A. F. Bianchi, George J. Ott, William A. Sinclair.

All About Teapot Dome

The Two Men Who Can Tell Should Be Brought From Europe, If Necessary Under Arrest, and the Whole Putrid Mess Uncovered

The $3,000,000 corruption fund by means of which the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve was stolen from the United States of America and transferred to private interests some six years ago was raised through the sale of enormous quantities of oil by one company to another.

Approximately $1,000,000 of this fund has been accounted for by the Senate investigating committee. The mystery is what became of the LARGER part.

H. M. Blackmer and James E. O'Neil, who with Harry F. Sinclair apparently know all there is to know about the transaction, left the United States when the storm broke and have been exiles ever since. Their testimony is required in order that the country may have ALL the facts of this gravest scandal in its history and, having them, be in a position to see that nothing of the sort can happen ever again.

The continued absence of Blackmer and O'Neil constitutes such a challenge to law and order as encourages those who like to say that if you steal a loaf of bread in this country you go to jail, while if your swag is in the millions you can turn your troubles over to high-priced attorneys and go to Paris.

The Washington Herald believes the way has been found to bring Blackmer and O'Neil to the witness stand. We earnestly hope the Herald is correctly informed.

The suggestion is that the millionaire vacationists be indicted for conspiracy to defraud the shareholders of the Prairie Oil Company, which was on the buying end of the fraudulent $3,000,000 transaction. O'Neil was president of the company, Blackmer the head of Midwest Refining.

Once under indictment, the Washington newspaper suggests, the missing witnesses can be arrested abroad and brought home under arrest, as "fugitives from justice."

One way or another, Blackmer and O'Neil must be placed upon the witness-stand, to tell all or go to jail.

We are not going to get far in our warfare upon the boy bandit so long as the "big fellow" is allowed to get away with his Teapot Domes.

The country wants the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth about this slimy mess in order that a thorough house-cleaning may begin.

One Russian Treasure

The World's Biggest Emerald

KWAN-YIN, CUT FROM A SINGLE EMERALD

This is the biggest emerald in the world, actual size as far as it goes. To save white paper, which is almost as expensive as emeralds when used on a big scale, the bottom of the emerald has been cut off.

The statue shows Kwan-yin, Chinese Goddess of Mercy, and is carved from a single emerald, supposed to have been taken from the Ural Mountains 150 years ago.

The goddess is walking along at her ease, a little child beside her. This precious stone, weighing 4700 karats, was sold recently by the Bolshevik Government, which needs money.

What the Messrs. Wartski paid for this and about eighty other precious objects purchased from Russia is not known. The emerald would be much more valuable if it were not carved at all.

In its natural state it could have been cut into very elaborate gems, and each one hung around the neck of the wife of some money king would have made him feel much more important. But even the biggest money king would hardly hang a thing as big as this around his wife's neck, it would bump against her chest while dancing and MIGHT produce cancer. Beware of bruises on the chest.

Some rich man will put this in his collection, proud to

INDEPENDENCE FOR THE CANADIANS?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE was some talk at the Havana conference about Canada becoming an independent nation and severing itself from Great Britain.

This is not to be understood as a slap against Great Britain, in fact it was said to have the approval of the British people.

There are many advantages connected with Canada's being an independent American country. It is already a world power and is undoubtedly able to stand on its own bottom.

It might take over the British Isle possessions in the Western Hemisphere, such as Bermuda and Jamaica.

And there might be other advantages in casting its lot definitely with the Western American Republics.

The relations between Canada and the United States have always been pleasant, in fact the long boundary line between the two countries has been much exploited as having no fortifications or other military defenses connected with it.

The United States has no desire to take over Canada, and Canadians, apparently, have no desire to become a part of the United States.

The arrangement to make Canada an integral factor of the Western Hemisphere might have an interesting effect upon the Monroe Doctrine, for Canada might be of great assistance to the United States in maintaining that doctrine.

The Latin-American countries of South America do not want to see Jamaica and other European-owned possessions taken over by the United States, but perhaps they would have no objection to admitting Canada into the Pan-American Union and allowing her to assume possession of the British Colonial possessions in this hemisphere.

The representatives of the United States naturally do not care to speak upon this matter, nor to urge it. They do not wish to take part in a discussion that is none of their business, but the sentiment of the conference was probably in favor of the movement.

Julio Garcia, chief of the Mexican delegation, as well as Mr. Rea and other Mexicans, and Mr. Vildosa, the Chilean delegate, said they would heartily support the admission of Canada and, Mr. Garcia added: "It makes no difference what political status Canada has, she is just as free and actually just as sovereign as any country belonging to the Pan-American Union."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE Wessons can't understand why their children aren't amounting to anything. Lookit all they've done for them. College educations n' everything. And yet, there's Harold—a great, big fellow of 24—and Lula, 22—and they're as helpless as babies.

Other young people are forging ahead—making their parents proud of their performance, but not Harold and Lula. Every day Papa and Mama Wesson grow more exasperated and mystified. Yet this is exactly what they might have expected.

Ever since Harold and Lula were born they were taught to Fear and Avoid Life. Things weren't explained to little Harold and Lula. They weren't allowed to question or debate or rebel or make experiments for themselves. Mr. and Mrs. Wesson didn't believe in these "new fangled notions about treating your children as equals and talking things over with them." What were parents for if they couldn't think for their children and direct their lives? They had no use for these shiftless, spineless fathers and mothers who let their children do what they pleased. Why, think of the things that might happen to them!

So Mr. and Mrs. Wesson made a plan for their children's lives. A nice, refined, safe, comfortable plan which covered every detail of their daily careers. With everything labeled and tagged and budgeted. If they departed from that plan they were promptly smacked. Always they heard Horrible Warnings about the things that happened to children who Acted Up and Got Themselves Talked About. It was, of course, fatally easy for Mama and Papa Wesson to dig up Awful Examples to illustrate their lectures.

Not being morons, Harold and Lula soon decided that it was healthy to obey Papa 'n' Mama 'n' Play Safe. Particularly as Obedience meant cookies and circus tickets and new party dresses and tennis rackets. And disobedience meant being smacked and put to bed. And even if Mama and Papa didn't smack you, Life would, if you tried anything risky.

So Harold and Lula grew up to be nice children and let Mama and Papa do their thinking for them. And then presently they were great big people of 24 and 22 and there was Life waiting for them to join the show. A huge, disorderly, dangerous, rude, uncharted Life, utterly unlike the neat, guarded, regulated Little Wesson world in which they had lived. Naturally Harold and Lula were flabbergasted, for they had never been taught to cope with disorderly, dangerous, uncharted affairs. They had been taught to conform and play safe. They had had their trails blazed. They had, in short, been good little rubber stamps for mama and papa. But they had never even started being Harold and Lula—Themselves.

All about them other youngsters are forging ahead—youngsters who had raised all sorts of didoes while they were growing up. But Lula and Harold, the model children, aren't amounting to anything. For the world doesn't want rubber stamps. It wants individuals who can think for themselves, carry their own responsibility and consume their own smoke. It has no use whatever for people who always play safe.

Funny—isn't it—but careless parent is sometimes better for a youngster than a too careful one.

New York Day by Day

O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 27—A New York lecturer opines newspaper columnists have become the modern preachers. "The scientists," he says, "have taken away the people's God and now they turn to the philosophers of the press for spiritual stimulation."

As flattering as that sounds, it isn't correct. The mass of newspaper readers turn from columns with either: "He's a nut!" or "Rather clever, but silly!" I do not know of a columnist who has waged a successful campaign for anything.

In the old days the cartoonist used to be effective in stirring enthusiasm for popular reforms—Nast and Davenport for example—but lately the cartoonist's province is chiefly to illuminate a current topic. People are doing a little more thinking for themselves, it seems.

The vogue of the newspaper column is now at its height. The columnist is granted more liberty than ever. But largely he wears cap and bells and clowns for his clientele.

He often amuses, but I doubt he is ever taken very seriously. And publishers more than anybody realize this. Every New York paper now has one or several local oracles who high dive, flip flop and pose in the manner of the window batter cake juggler.

As one of the guild, I have never noticed one regarding his job with any great pomposity. If he does, he is kidding himself. Newspaper columnists came to journalism in much the same manner vaudeville caught on in the world of the legitimate theatre—it offered variety. Nothing much else.

As long as that variety has spice it will endure and no longer. Almost every columnist is asked how to start a column. The question is difficult. They are spawned by chance and, like Topsy, just grow. No columnist can give a satisfactory answer as to just how he became a columnist, or how long he will remain one. Any day he may find a new boy occupying his desk.

THE most thrilling moment of the theater this season was in a play dealing with vaudeville life back stage. On a rope stretched from the stage to the top gallery the performer tip-toed his perilous way over heads of the audience and slid for life to the stage again. This stunt made a wow of a mediocre play.

SEVERAL department stores have manicure booths for little rich children. Their nails are done regularly, and then it is presumed they go back to their mud pies.

MORNINGSIDE DRIVE is the baby's paradise. In no section of New York are so many babies seen. They are trundled out in their carriages early, and often remain in the open until dusk.

IT is noticed stage players have not been afflicted with incompatibility—or whatever they call pouting—this season. Not one has stamped his or her foot and rushed from the theater with a nose in the air, bristling with indignation. Temperament has either gone out of fashion or jobs are not so plentiful, and, being the mean-tempered soul we are, we suspect the latter.

ABSINTHE—trapped or dripped—is on sale in many speakeasies. It is sold at $2 a shot, and its popularity lies in its lingering wallop and the fact it only takes one or two to make the drinker "that way." So easy job it become to get the drink, it is reported a number of thrill seekers have become absinthe addicts. No drink creates such a craving or offers such a short and spectacular finish. In the days of the saloon there were even saloon keepers who refused to sell it because of its degrading effects.

A VISITOR writes to New York newspapers that his objection to the metropolis is that there are no places to sit down. If it continues to worry him, I'll be glad to forward the address of my favorite skating rink.

Man Outruns Horse

Will Power Does It

More than 150 miserable creatures are engaged in a foot-race across this continent. When only one hundred miles on their 3400-mile journey, many racers had dropped out, exhausted. Such a race is cruel, utterly useless, proves nothing, and inflicts needless suffering. The runner of Marathon died at the end of his run in a good cause.

But now electricity can go around the world seven times in one second.

The running superiority of men over animals was proved long since. In France, a young Hindu girl wins a race on horseback from Paris to Cannes, 550 miles.

In New York, about forty years ago, an Irishman, afterward elected Mayor of Long Island City, ran more than six hundred miles in six days. The horse COULD outrun man if he had the will power and knew why he was running. Will excels strength.

One Russian Treasure

show it. The Russians were wise to sell it, instead of keeping it as the Czar kept this and millions upon millions worth of other similar "treasures."

The money paid for the emerald Goddess Kwan-yin will be spent by Russia to buy tractors and other agricultural machinery for Russian farmers. The Goddess of Mercy will be well occupied feeding people that need food.

Incidentally, the price of the emerald goddess will very likely go to Henry Ford. The Russian Government buys thousands of farm tractors from the Ford factory.

The Czar that used to own this never expected that.
